One-Armed Paperhangers?

Here Are Three—and One Had Hives!

H. H. Norton
of Anamosa, Ia.

(By Associated Press)

The joke about the one-armed paperhanger with the hives wasn't funny to H. H. Norton of Anamosa, Iowa. Norton, you see, is a one-armed paperhanger—and he had the hives.

Bygones are bygones—it happened years ago. He doesn't mind telling about it now. He'll also tell you how good he is at his job. He slaps the wallpaper against a wall with his good arm, holds it in place with his head, sometimes his teeth.

"It isn't so tough after you get used to it," he says.

Charles Wenham of Sioux Falls, S. D., another one-armed paper-hanger, never had the hives, but he's had more business than he has right now.

"I can still hang paper as good as I used to—maybe not quite as fast, but just as good," he says, "but people like their paperhangers streamlined and at 74 I can't say I'm exactly that."

Charles Wenham
of Sioux City, S. D.

Arthur S. Hamilton, one-armed paperhanger of Tacoma, Wash., never had the hives, either, but he does have a grin for the publicity he's received. It's helped to keep him working every day when other paperhangers have gone on relief.

Hamilton calls himself the fastest paperhanger in town. A steel hook on the stump of his left arm helps to keep him at top speed. His chief difficulty, he says, is to convince new customers that he really can hang paper fast and straight.

When not working, he likes to pitch ball and play golf. He's sorry miniature golf went out. He used to be a local champion at that.

Robbery Attempt Turns Into Kidnaping as Bandits Fail to Find Money.

BULLETIN

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(INS)—Two companies of the California National Guard were called out today to aid in the search for Mrs. William H. Meeks, 55, Yuba City rancher's wife, who was kidnaped early today.

(By International News Service)

YUBA CITY, Cal.—Hot on a trail less than an hour old, G-men and other law enforcement officers blocked all highways within a radius of 50 miles of Yuba City today in an effort to apprehend two youthful bandits who kidnaped Mrs. William R. Meeks, 55, wife of a wealthy rancher.

Held for $15,000 ransom by the two men, when they became angered at their inability to find any money in the Meeks' home last night, Mrs. Meeks was believed captive in some abandoned house, within the city limits of nearby Marysville, where police found the car, the motor still warm, in which the men had escaped from the ranch.

'Can't Possibly Escape.'

Nat J. L. Pieper, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in northern California, declared the men could not possibly escape the ring of officers which was closing in on Marysville and Yuba City, just across the river.

Mrs. Meeks was kidnaped when the two youths, described by her husband as being between 22 and 24 years of age, entered their home by a side window.

The rancher and his wife had entertained a number of guests at a party during the evening. Only a few minutes before the pair entered, the last guest had departed and Mr. and Mrs. Meeks were preparing to retire.

Forcing them into a rear room the youths, masked with white handkerchiefs, bound and gagged both husband and wife.

Demand $15,000 Ransom.

Finding no money, the youths returned to the bedroom, released Mrs. Meeks and demanded that she show them where the money was hidden.

When she replied that there was no money in the house, Meeks told deputy sheriffs, they announced that they were going to hold Mrs. Meeks captive "until you are ready to pay $15,000."

The rancher, who is 58, was left securely bound while the two men forced his wife into the Meeks' new sedan and escaped in an easterly direction.

Struggling against his bonds, it was more than an hour before Meeks was able to escape and call the sheriff's office here.

Little Audrey Just Sang And Sang And It Caused Trouble

NEW YORK—(AP)—Little Audrey explained to Magistrate Charles Solomon that she just couldn't resist applause and that's why Little Audrey's mother got into trouble.

Little Audrey Golub, 9, was giving impersonations at the Manhattan beach baths. When she finished she imitated a screen star's singing and dancing. This caused an agent of the children's society to file a complaint against little Audrey's mother, the manager of the baths, and an orchestra leader.

The encore, it seems, was a violation of the law because Little Audrey's permit called for impersonations only—not for song and dance.

Little Audrey explained her mother had warned her against singing but she "couldn't resist it," when she heard the applause. The magistrate dismissed the case with a warning to Audrey to heed her mother.

Mayor Scores Three 'Firsts' In N. Y. Trip

Climaxes 50-Hour Visit by Stealing 'Thunder' of Congressman In Talk.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter smilingly returned to his desk at city hall today after scoring "three firsts" during a 50-hour visit to New York City.

No. 1 was his first trip to the metropolis.

No. 2 was his first ride in an airplane.

No. 3 was the first time he ever stole the "thunder" from a congressman in a luncheon address.

It was a "Jobs for Men" luncheon sponsored by the Electrical and Gas association of New York which Mayor Hunter attended. As a guest of honor at the luncheon, he was introduced and spoke before 1,600 sales executives at the Hotel Commodore.

As to his "firsts" No. 1 and No. 2, the mayor missed none of the customary thrills that go along with sights in the big city and first airplane rides. He sums them up with "they were experiences I never will forget."

But the mayor's really big moment came when he took the speaking platform and later found out that he unknowingly had "stolen" the speech of a New York congressman, the head of one of the country's leading advertising agencies and a noted author—Bruce Barton.

It all happened like this:

The luncheon inaugurated the Consolidated Edison company's "Jobs for Men" campaign in which a co-operative effort is being made to create jobs by stimulating the sales of electrical appliances.

MAYOR CLAUDE M. HUNTER

The mayor preceded Congressman Barton to the speaking platform, and as an example of the widespread effect the sale of one individual item of merchandise has on the country as a whole, Hunter said:

"It's just like tossing a pebble into a pool of water. The waves keep widening out and extending farther and farther. The same would be true if a stone was drop-

First Votes Cast In School Bond Issue Election

The first absent voters' ballots had been cast today in the special Mansfield school bond election, as the P.T.A. council set up an elaborate precinct organization to take the bond issue facts to every voter in the city before the election Sept. 20.

Four ballots were voted at the board of elections office at the courthouse, and election officials said they would continue to accept absent voters' ballots until Sept. 17. Ballots may be requested by mail or voted at the elections office. Registrations for the election will be received until Sept. 14.

With the help of about 25 teachers who volunteered their aid in the bond issue campaign, the P.T.A. organization compiled a list by precincts of all voters in the city and prepared to assign workers to visit homes in behalf of the bond issue.

WESTBROOK COUNTRY CLUB—The Ohio senior golf tournament, due to close today, had developed into a neck-and-neck race between a Zanesville golfer and one from Cleveland, on the basis of the early returns.

D. E. Carey, who shot a 77 yesterday to lead the event, carded a 41 for the first nine this morning, for a 118 total. But right on his heels was R. P. Balph of Cleveland, who had a 78 yesterday, and came right back with a matching 41 today, to stay just a stroke behind the leader.

Also carding a 41 was Frank H. Pelton, two-time champion, but his 82 yesterday put his 27-hole total at 123, five strokes back of the leader.

Schools Require Vaccination Of All Pupils For First Time

Mansfield's 6,400 public school children must wear vaccination marks on their arms or show doctors' certificates of immunity against smallpox before they will be permitted to return to school Wednesday, Supt. W. L. Miller said today.

The compulsory vaccination is the result of a ruling passed by the board of education last spring during a smallpox outbreak in the city and county.

About 600 boys and girls will enter school for the first time next week, and the vaccination order applies particularly to them, Miller said. Children who will be six years old on or before Dec. 31, 1938, will be eligible to enter school, he added.

Vaccination is not compulsory in all the county schools, since the county board made the immunization optional with the local boards of education.

Miller pointed out that pupils whose parents are unable to pay for vaccination would be treated by the health department at no cost. He added, however, that most of the pupils who attended school last year were vaccinated then and will not need treatment this year.

All textbooks will be provided for public school pupils free for the second year.

WIRE-TAPPING STORY STARTS IN HINES CASE

Federal Man Tells of Tapping Davis' Phone; Stryker Calls It Illegal.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK—(INS)—Max D. Steuer, famous lawyer, today took the stand against Jimmy Hines, his friend for 25 years, and testified that in 1933 when Dutch Schultz was a fugitive the Tammany district leader appealed to him to square Dutch with the law.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey today laid the foundation for introduction against James J. Hines of evidence obtained by tapping of telephone wires.

In quick succession he called a telephone company employe and a U. S treasury agent as witnesses after J. Richard (Dixie) Davis somewhat unexpectedly was excused from further cross-examination.

Dewey apparently expected to offer evidence regarding one occasion when Hines allegedly telephoned Davis and asked him for $500.

Davis Leaves Stand.

Davis was put back on the stand when court convened, but Hines' counsel, Lloyd Paul Stryker, said he had no further questions. Yesterday he had forced Davis to confess perjury and other crimes, but he had not directly attacked Davis' story that he paid the Tammany leader thousands of dollars for protection of the Dutch Schultz gang's lottery racket.

William J. Mellin, special agent of the treasury department and former employe of the New York Telephone company, was called next.

He testified that he "tapped wires and installed dictographs" for the Bronx district attorney and later for the federal government.

Tells of Tapping Line.

On June 6, 1933, he testified, he tapped Dixie Davis' telephone (Davis then lived at 55 Central Park West) and recorded what he heard. Mellin was then a narcotics agent, he said.

Stryker asked Mellin if he did not know that under New York law wire-taping was a felony.

"I did not," the witness said.

Dewey insisted Stryker's statement was "contrary to fact" and Justice Ferdinand Pecora was asked to settle the dispute. He asked the attorneys to cite legal authorities for their contentions.

Assurance Reported To Have Been Given Henderson Eases Tension In Europe; Problem Still Remains.

DEADLOCK SOLUTION OFFERED

British Observer To Propose Own Plan Of Settlement if Nazis, Czechs Fail To Come To Agreement.

(By United Press)

BERLIN—Germany has given assurances to Great Britain that she will undertake no over-hasty steps in the Czechoslovak minorities dispute, it was said today in an authoritative quarter.

It was believed that the assurance was given through Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador.

It was understood that in return for the German assurances, the British government pledged that if minority proposals made by the Czechoslovak government and counter-proposals which the Sudeten German party is expected to advance resulted in a deadlock, Viscount Runciman, British adviser in the minorities dispute, would publish his own conclusions and suggestions by mid-September.

This meant that the fear of war which has hung over millions of homes in a dozen European countries was put off for two weeks, though it did not mean a solution of the Czechoslovak problem. But if direct negotiations in the minority problem failed—as was feared—the British adviser's own conclusions were expected to be more generous than any offers which the Czechoslovak government might make, as regards concessions for the German and other minorities in Czechoslovakia.

Important Development.

Also, the mid-September deadline was an additional evidence that Germany does not intend to submit to long drawn out negotiations or an incomplete settlement of the minorities dispute.

News of the German assurances, obviously one of the most important diplomatic developments in weeks, came just as Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, surrounded by his most trusted aides at Berchtesgaden, in his mountain villa Haus Wachenfeld, was starting a long conference with Konrad Henlein, leader of the German minority in Czechoslovakia.

It was said authoritatively that the conference would not result in any decisions or commitments on Hitler's part but was purely in the nature of a long report by Henlein on the present status of his negotiations with the Czechoslovak government.

This status is that the Czechoslovak government has advanced a new minorities offer, which Sudeten German leaders, knowing its details, have said would not satisfy them. They were expected to submit counter proposals.

Ready to Make Offer Public.

It was expected here that President Edouard Benes of Czechoslovakia would announce the government proposals in a radio speech today or tomorrow. It was said here that these proposals would be examined immediately and carefully.

Hitler was mapping his own plans for his speeches at the annual Nazi party conference at Nuremberg next week, when he is to tell the party, and the world, his long range policy toward Czechoslovakia.

As Hitler and Henlein talked today, air raid sirens roared dramatically in Berlin. Following up air defense drills last night, the air protection corps held daylight practice today. Sirens shrieked and members of anti-aircraft crews and the civilian defense corps dashed to their stations.

It was understood that an important exchange took place Wednesday night between Ambas-

Czech President Maps New Partition Plan as Peace Offer

(By International News Service)

PRAGUE—Determined to evolve a peaceful settlement of the Sudeten crisis despite Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's rejection of a three month truce, President Edouard Benes took personal charge of the negotiations today and mapped out a plan for virtual partition of Czechoslovakia.

Representing a sweeping concession on the part of Prague, it was intimated Benes would agree to reorganization of the country along what are known as "gau" lines, splitting Czechoslovakia into German and Czech regions and granting virtually full autonomy to the Sudetens.

Such concessions, it is hoped, will be acceptable to Berlin and pave the way to amicable adjudication of the danger-laden crisis.

(Editor's Note: The German word "gau" means province or district. It came into general use after Hitler's rise to power, when he divided Germany into various regions like the federated states of imperial days, each under the jurisdiction of a "gauleiter," or Nazi district leader.)

For the first time since the present acute situation developed, Dr. Benes lent his own persuasiveness, power and prestige to the actual negotiations. He received Ernst Kundt, deputy Sudeten leader, and one of his aides in a two-hour conference at the presidential palace and made known that if his government's present proposals are rejected, he is ready and willing to go even further.

News of the Benes-Kundt meeting, which lasted until 2 p. m., led to renewed optimism. Prague also was encouraged by an official communique from Berlin stating that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and Sudeten Leader Konrad Henlein found themselves in "complete agreement."

Henlein and his deputies are ac-

British Plan for Financing War In U. S. Revealed

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Great Britain has ready for instant use in event of a war with Germany a secret plan for financing a major part of the conflict in the United States, this correspondent is able to disclose today.

Upwards of $2,500,000,000 in American dollar credits would be used, under the plan, to purchase food supplies, munitions, guns and planes.

The plan, according to expert opinion given International News Service by international legal authorities, would not be blocked by the Johnson act, which forbids defaulting World war debtors from floating further loans in this country.

The British plan is to mobilize $2,500,000,000 in dollar credits and investments now in this country and make them available for purchase of needed war supplies.

The huge sum is now in the United States in the form of investments by private British interests in American utilities, various forms of transportation, insurance, factories, stocks and bonds, and in liquid funds in American banks.

The plan would provide confiscation of these holdings from private owners by the British government. The government would reimburse its nationals with British paper notes, backed by sterling reserves.

The "mobilized" holdings in this country then would be left here to make the huge scale purchases of food, munitions and raw materials a major war would demand.

WESTBROOK CLUB PLANS CHAMPIONSHIP EVENTS

Full Week-End Planned at Westbrook Country Club With Labor Day Dance, Championship Sports Events and Buffet Supper.

THE week-end calendar of events at Westbrook Country club is fairly well filled with social and sports events, with a dance, a buffet supper, tournaments and championship events.

Saturday night the annual Labor day dance will be given at the club with Bob Richards and his orchestra furnishing the music. Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Fernyak are hosts for the affair.

Monday morning the men's championship golf final will be played over 36 holes. Events for the afternoon are the women's driving contest, the men's driving contest, the club putting championship and the mixed two-ball foursome tournament. The committee in charge of these events, and with which contestants should register before Monday, is made up of H. Lydon Beam, Mrs. O. H. Schettler and Jock Collins.

There will also be a swimming meet in the afternoon at the club pool, with James McConnell in charge of events. Club championships will be decided for both men and women taking part in the following events: a 50 yard and 100 yard free style swim; the breast stroke and the back stroke, and high and low board diving.

Early in the evening a buffet supper will be served and the awards in the day's contests will be made by W. J. Spreng.

Bingo and other card games will be in play during the evening.

GENERAL AID MEETING.

General Aid Society of the First Methodist Episcopal church was held yesterday at the church and the new officers for the coming year took over their duties. Mrs. C. A. Crawford, president, was in charge, and devotions were read by Mrs. C. E. Frazier.

Home Religion Main Subject Of Discussion

An interesting discussion on the general subject of "Thy Kingdom Come In Our Homes" provided the program yesterday when members of the Women's Missionary society of United Brethren church met at the church.

Four sub-titles under the general head were given to round out the subject. They were: "We Can Be Informed," given by Mrs. William Swinehart; "We Can Give Ourselves," by Mrs. Leo Jones; "We Can Give Our Means," by Mrs. R. V. Hoover; and "Ours Is To Be Christians," by Mrs. P. E. Swihart. The entire subject dealt with Christianity in the home.

Musical numbers were given by little Shirley Swinehart who sang "Tiny Little Girl Like Me," and a trio made up of Mrs. Earl Crider, Mrs. Leo Jones and Mrs. R. V. Hoover, who sang "Giving Our All To God." Mrs. Oscar Yahney, president of the society, presided at the meeting.

The Oct. 6th meeting will be held at the church, with Mrs. V. G. Dudley, Mrs. L. F. Hout and Mrs. J. C. Lyons in charge.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

School Styles Are Important These September Days

While Big Brother looks on, sister displays her singing lesson and her new school frock of red, green and beige plaid cotton, trimmed with white pique. Brother's school suit is of gray wool.

Shoulder-strap skirts are an important juvenile fashion note this fall. This one, designed with a high-front waistline, is made of dark brown crinkled flannel and is worn with a sweater of soft gold wool. Front pleats give it fullness.

Jane Bacon Off To England After Sorority Farewell

THE meeting last night of Beta Sigma Phi sorority at the home of Miss Ardis Linzee, 666 Park avenue west, served as a farewell for Miss Jane Bacon who left last night for New York City and who sails today on the S. S. American Banker for London.

Miss Bacon will spend two months touring England and visiting relatives there. Her mother, Mrs. E. K. Bacon, Glenwood boulevard, spent several months there last year when she attended the coronation.

Miss Aleen Hughes told of her recent trip to Bermuda and showed several reels of film taken on the island.

After a short business meeting and Miss Hughes' talk, members of the group accompanied Miss Bacon to the train. When she arrives at her stateroom aboard the boat today she will be greeted with a large bunch of yellow roses, the sorority's flower, sent her by the Mansfield group.

The next meeting of the sorority will be held Sept. 13 at the home of Miss Ruth Workman, 149 Maple street.

WORKS FOR RAILROAD

For 16 years Miss Ruth Eley has filled hard assignments at the Dallas, Tex., roundhouse. She knows the railroad men's language and technic and can throttle a locomotive with the skill of a veteran. "It's a man job," she says, "but I like it."

GRANT VOTE

After a fifteen-year struggle the women of Rumania have been granted the right to vote by King Carol. Furthermore, they will be allowed to sit in the two legislative assemblies and can qualify for the senate. All this is made possible by the new Rumanian constitution.

Prominent Women Start Spanish Refuge Work

For the relief of the orphaned and refugee children in Spain, a group of prominent women have formed a sponsoring committee to aid the Foster Parents' Plan in a new drive.

The Foster Parents' Plan for Children in Spain was organized by John Langdon-Davies in England a year ago, upon the adoption principle which was prevalent for children of France and Belguim during the World war.

It was established in the United States under the supervision of Eric Muggerridge, who has been working in Spain with Langdon-Davies. The foster parent adopts a Spanish child, by paying 25 cents a day toward its support. Letters and pictures may be exchanged between the child and its foster parents to establish personal contact. Headquarters of the Foster Parents' Plan are in New York.

Among the women sponsoring the movement are Mrs. James Roosevelt, Helen Keller, Dr. Mary E. Woolley, retired Mt. Holyoke college president, Mrs. Stephen S. Wise, Helen Hayes, Dorothy Parker.

First Presbyterian Circles Meet In Regular Sessions

SEVERAL circles of First Presbyterian Guild met yesterday for devotions and programs when members were guests at homes of hostesses.

Mrs. J. B. Lindley, 300 Park avenue west, was hostess to Circle One, with Mrs. Emma Harris and Miss Flora Lentzy as her assistant hostesses. Nineteen members were present.

After devotions, led by Mrs. C. L. Allen, Mrs. J. R. Turner presented the program in an original manner. It was carried out in the form of a radio broadcast and all members took part in it. Two interesting travel talks were given over the "microphone," when Mrs. J. M. Johnston told of her recent trip to Canada, and Mrs. L. S. Houk told of a motor trip to Pacific coast states. Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the church, was a "surprise" guest and speaker.

Refreshments were served, with Miss Lentzy presiding at the tea table. The next meeting was announced for Oct. 6, with Mrs. Irene Bonnette, 93½ West Third street.

There were 15 members and three guests at the meeting of Circle Three, which met with Mrs. Harvey Lanehart, 202 Bennett avenue. The guests were Rev. Roller, Mrs. Frank Leavitt and little Marcia Cook.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. George W. Weller. Mrs. Leavitt gave an interesting talk on "Flowers of the Bible" and Marcia Cook played several accordion numbers. Mrs. Milo Hieber and Mrs. C. A. McClure presided at the tea table during the social hour.

On Oct. 6 the circle meets again with Mrs. Weller, Millsboro road. Her associate hostesses will be Mrs. Charles Remy, Mrs. F. A. Russell. The place of the meeting will be announced later.

Arthur L. Glattke, superintendent of the Ohio State Reformatory, addressed members of Circle Five yesterday at the home of Mrs. Stella Armstrong, 468 Sturges avenue. Mrs. E. R. Hart and Mrs. Mary George were associate hostesses.

Mr. Glattke talked on "Reformation," telling of the major causes of crime among young men as shown by statistics, and talking on possible means of reformation of the offenders. Mrs. Elizabeth Smythe conducted the devotions, taking as her subject, "Our Friendship for Christ."

Mrs. Hart was at the tea table for the social hour. During the business meeting it was decided to have a work meeting at the church Oct. 6, with a covered-dish dinner at 12:30. Mrs. W. H. Goodenough and Mrs. Robert Ditsler will be hostesses.

Ashland Talent Will Be Heard In Mansfield During Season—Study Club Announces Schedule for 1938-39 Program.

THE Mansfield Music Study club will open its new season with a dinner and recital at the Leland hotel on Oct. 5, according to the year's program which is being completed this week.

At their opening the club will present Miss Bernice Bicksler, Ashland pianist, in a program of classical music, following the dinner.

A month later, Nov. 7, at the Women's club, the second program will be given and this will depart entirely from the classics. Mrs. Paul W. Williams will be chairman. On Nov. 20 a program of piano and organ duos will be presented at 4 o'clock by Mrs. Margaret Hall and Mrs. Rhea Twitchel, with Mrs. Mary Troll Anglin, contralto, assisting.

The club's choral group will present a program at the Dec. 12 meeting at the Women's club, after a study of choral music. On Jan. 8 the club will hold its annual holiday guest tea at the Leland hotel ballroom, with the Ashland Music club presenting the program.

Folk music will be the subject of study on Feb. 2, with Mrs. F. A. Hoffman as the chairman. The March program is being arranged by the Junior Music groups.

At the meeting of Apr. 5, which precedes the opening of the Metropolitan Opera week at Cleveland, the club will hear a lecture on opera music, with illustrations by members.

Sunday, May 7, the annual cantata by the choral group will be given, with LeMoine Derr conducting. The second May meeting, which is on the 15th, will be a "sealed program," and this will conclude the 1938-39 program.

Officers this year are Mrs. K. E. Buhr, president; Mrs. Joy Herbert, vice president; Miss Jane Foltz, recording secretary; Miss Elizabeth Burneson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Fred Cahall, assistant secretary; Albert Arnold, treasurer; Paul Watts, assistant treasurer, and Mrs. E. Renick, librarian.

Committee chairmen for the year are: Mrs. Margaret Hall, program committee; Miss Frances Brinkerhoff, altruistic committee; Mrs. H. L. Gilbert, membership; Mrs. W. J. Hazeltine, scholarship; Miss Myrtle Booth, publicity; Miss Teressa Pfeifer, social committee; Mrs. Frank Lane, radio committee; Miss Katherine Hartman, current musical events; LeMoine Derr, choral director; and Mrs. Edward D. Gibson, junior counsellor.

Dolly Madisons Sponsor Dinner

The Dolly Madison club will sponsor a covered-dish supper at North Lake park pavilion Tuesday at 6 p. m., which will be an opening rally for Democratic interest in the city.

All members of the party and candidates are invited to attend the meeting. After the supper there will be a program and candidates present will be introduced.

It is planned to have an out-of-town speaker here for the occasion who will outline the work to be done for the fall campaign.

FAMILY PICNIC.

A family picnic was enjoyed yesterday by members of the Busy Bee club and their families at North Lake park, with 26 present. The evening was spent socially and it was decided to hold the next meeting with Mrs. George Bistline, Buckingham street on Sept. 15. Associate hostesses will be Mrs. Lial Ish.

RETURN FROM TRIP.

A group of Mansfield women have returned from a five day motor trip to Washington and points of interest in that vicinity, coming home by way of the Sky Line drive in Virginia. Those in the party were Miss Mary Bowersock, 8 Grey court; Miss Lavada Ewing, 255 Rae avenue; Miss Doris Boyce, 126 Dawson; Miss Gertrude McClure, 103 Helen avenue; and Mrs. R. R. Chickolani, 19¼ Bartley street.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Hartman, 344 North Townview, are motoring through Virginia visiting Williamsport, Old Point Comfort, and other historical points.

PATTY'S RED-HOT FAVORITE TO WIN ESTELLE'S TITLE ON CHICAGO COURSE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—Patty Berg, freckle-faced threat from the west, is a red-hot favorite to walk off with Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page's women's golf title at Chicago this month. . . . Marquette's football squad—43 huskies—will be the smallest in years. . . . Big mystery here right now is whether Burleigh Grimes or Babe Ruth will manage the Dodgers next summer.

If you take the word of Potsy Clark, coach of the Brooklyn football Dodgers, the best football talent grows out where the grass is highest. . . . The way Hank Greenberg is pounding out doubles and triples these days shows he isn't aiming for the fence every time he goes up there. . . . By the way, the betting locally is that Hank (who now has 46) will not bust Babe Ruth's homer record of 60 this year. . . . Indignant Pitt fans are wiring in to say that Goldberg is in swell shape and will do as much ball-toting as ever this fall. . . . Well, mebbe.

It is now pretty well established around the Yankee stadium that Tommy Henrich will be Lou Gehrig's successor when the iron horse decides to step down. . . . Howard Brickey, sports editor of the Wichita Falls (Tex.) Times calls Oscar Vitt's Indians the "Vanishing Americans." . . . Lee Gamble of the Reds has a new baseball superstition—he refuses to change his sox (or his socks, either, if he can help it) while in a hitting streak.

Baugh-Isbell Clashes Promise Action.

JOE CRONIN gave his wife the robin's egg blue sedan he won for being named on the cereal firm's all-star team. . . . Somebody's doing one good job of press-agenting for the Cleveland Rams of the National football league. Looks like we'll see plenty when the Messrs. Baugh and Cecil Isbell former Purdue ace hook up in the National football league this fall.

McKinley Holds Newman Men's Club to One Hit.

Dale McKinley was again in form yesterday as the Musille Cigars swept their three-game series with the Newman Men's club, 10 to 0, at Liberty park. McKinley yielded only one hit in the six-inning game halted by darkness, to register the Cigars' 11th straight triumph and his 28th victory of the season. He struck out six. The only hit obtained off his delivery was a single by Rettig.

Bob Boyd led the winners at bat with a triple, double and single, and also fielded sensationally at shortstop. Pete Schadek also starred in the field.

Carey's 77 Tops Opening Scores

Hull, Balph Shoot 78's to Establish Themselves As Dangerous Contenders at Westbrook.

CHAMPIONSHIP honors in the 11th renewal of the Ohio Seniors' golf tournament were to be decided today at the Westbrook Country club.

D. E. Carey of Zanesville led the scoring parade as play moved in the final half of the tournament today, but Floyd Hull, a fellow townsman, and R. P. Balph of Cleveland were in close pursuit.

Whether yesterday's leaders would be able to withstand the challenge of the field remained to be seen today.

Lead Margin Small.

Carey, Hull and Balph headed the field, but they were not too far in front to make the possibility of trailing contenders to come out in front by spurting today.

Perhaps the most sensational nine holes ever shot in the tournament enabled Carey to grab the lead at the halfway mark yesterday. The Zanesville veteran com-

Madison Toughens Schedule

Rams' New Card Includes Games With Mt. Vernon, Crestline, Norwalk.

A SCHEDULE toughened by the addition of four new rivals will keep Al Fendrick's Madison high school Rams stepping next fall.

Mt. Vernon, Crestline, Norwalk St. Paul's and Sunbury are the new additions to the suburban Mansfield school's grid card, and their replacement of weaker foes make the Rams' job the toughest ever tackled by a Madison team.

Eight Vets Return.

With eight lettermen returning, Fendrick has a fine nucleus around which to construct his 1938 eleven, but his thoughts are far from another undefeated season.

In addition to losing Capt. Bill Moritz, Jack Priess and Bob Wiemer, all Mid-State league men, Fendrick will have to find replacements for Lettermen Buck Chronister, Martin Scheel, Oliver Au, Dick Brightbill, Gerald Hershey, Don Perry and Lewis Danison. All are through school except Danison, whom Fendrick had hoped to use as a guard. Danison has moved out of the Madison territory.

Madison's grid hopes are not expected to be too sorrowful with three All-Mid-State leaguers returning. They are Capt Joe Miller, Gene Harmon and Bill Wilkins. Miller and Harmon are backs, while Wilkins is an end.

Other lettermen returning are Doug De Nero, an end; Mel Harner, Bob Wilkins and Gerald Higgins, guards, and Bob Matthes and Bill Heichel, backs.

Fendrick expects a squad of at least 40 to report for the opening drill scheduled at 2 p. m. Tuesday. Madison 1938 schedule follows:

Sept. 16—Sunbury, here; Sept. 23, New London, here; Sept. 30—Crestline, there; Oct. 7—Mt. Vernon, there; Oct. 14—Upper Sandusky, here; Oct. 21—Norwalk St. Paul's, here; Oct 27—Open; Nov. 4—Loudonville, here; Nov. 11—Bellville, there; Nov. 18—Mt. Gilead, here.

All of the home games will be played under the lights, with the Mt. Vernon tilt the only nocturnal affair scheduled for the road.

Play Old Rival.

The schedule this year also marks the return of New London. Madison and New London completed a series three years ago in which the Rams lost every game. Their meeting this year is expected to be one of the highlights of the season.

Rivalries with Fredericktown, Danville and Butler will not be renewed this year as these schools have withdrawn from the Mid-State league in which the Rams are defending champions.

Dugger's Return Bolsters Tyger Grid Hopes

MANSFIELD high school football prospects were tinted with a brighter hue today.

Yesterday 65 candidates reported to Coach Russ Murphy and his assistant, Harry Mehock, for the first practice of the season at Empire field, and included in the squad was Jack Dugger.

Return Unexpected.

Until Murphy saw Dugger in the lineup of candidates yesterday, the Tyger mentor had not figured on the end this season. In fact, Murphy had made mental lineup changes to fill the place vacated by the big wingman.

Dugger was erased from the Tyger picture a month ago when he moved with his family to Dover, where he had planned on entering school next fall.

A change in plans resulted in the return of the family to Mansfield, and probably none of the family was happier over the turn of events than Jack, who has developed rapidly both in football and basketball under Murphy's tutoring.

The return of Dugger does not assure Mansfield of a brilliant season, by any means, but his presence eliminates Murphy's flank worries, at least.

All of the lettermen, including Capt. Rich Nagle, reported with yesterday except Jack Phaler and Bill Condon, who are working, and Grover Swoyer, who has not returned from a vacation. They are expected to report later this week.

Included among the other candidates whom Murphy is figuring on this year who did not report were Arl Williams and George Eibbs, inexperienced but promising.

Murphy is anxious to get the entire squad together as soon as possible as work for the initial game with Akron West two weeks from Saturday must be rushed.

A crowd of 150 team followers viewed the opening drill which lasted about three hours. All drills are open to the public.

As the squad as a whole reported in good condition, Murphy cracked the whip yesterday, and the players responded with one of the finest first day workouts in history.

Work On Fundamentals.

Fundamental work was first on the program. The tackling dummy was given a stiff workout, the backs brushed up on their ball handling and the linemen went through blocking drills.

Murphy run the team through a series of pass plays to loosen up the legs of the candidates late in the workout, and planned to add running plays to the program today.

RANDOM SHOTS

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

MADISON high football followers probably don't know it, but they nearly lost their coach a couple of weeks ago. Al Fendrick was offered the first assistant's job at Fremont Ross, where Fred McClintock, late of Galion, is head man. . . . And another former Galion coach, Bob Corry, has quit the coaching business to go into business with his father-in-law. Bob was slated to take over the Cuyahoga Falls job this year.

STOVER

Pat Pasini, who served as starter at the Mansfield Relays, will handle tonight's All-Star football game in Cleveland. . . . Dewey Stover, who won the batting championship of the Ohio State league last year, is hitting at a .288 clip for Moultrie, Ga., and there is no chance of the former Mansfield pilot dragging his club out of the basement of the Georgia-Florida league. The season is over. . . . The most difficult dives to execute are the back two and a half and triple forward sommersaults, according to Russ Von Wieder, Liberty park pool manager, and he ought to know. He represented the U. S. a couple of times as a diver in Olympic competition.

Taking a tip from the rah-rah of the colleges, Washington's pro Redskins are coming out with an 80-piece band for their games this season. . . . Columnist Mark Hellinger—he's of New York—predicts an undefeated season for Ohio State. But Coach Schmidt is moaning. . . . Wonder whatever become of Joe Donnelly's dream to organize a rival Ohio State league, with Mansfield a member? Joe probably decided it was nothing more than a nightmare after a summer of headaches with the semi-pro circuit.

* * * * *

Notice, Mr. Baseball Manager: The Fostoria baseball club finds buttermilk takes the grass stain off used balls well enough to put them back into play. Columbus uses waterless soap. . . . An Akron golf course uses cups an inch larger in diameter than regulation. They decrease scores four or five strokes and increase business.

* * * * *

Harmon Toughens Up for Football on Farm.

ONE of the best conditioned athletes to report for the Madison high drills Tuesday should be Gene Harmon. Working on a farm all summer, Gene made only three trips to town. . . . Noel Morgan, a Tyger basketballer a couple of years ago, plans on entering Ohio Wesleyan. Ditto: Eddie Lore, who set scoring records for Mt. Vernon. . . . Ford Frick, president of the National league, has a letter from 93 "loyal Cincinnati fans" suggesting that regulation games be cut to seven innings to allow players additional time to catch trains and also prevent the Reds from losing so many games in the last two innings.

Johns Park Team Clinches City Class A League Title

Whips Prospect, 13-10, in Playoff

Softball Champions Turn Attention to Games Billed With All-Star Team Over Week-End.

MANAGER JOHN FLOCKENZIER and his Johns Park softball aggregation today turned all of their attention toward their week-end schedule.

The Johnnies won the City Class A league gonfalon yesterday at Johns park, and now they can take care of some of the challenges that have been tossed their way.

At League park at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, the champions will meet an all-star team selected from the league. The two teams will collide again Monday at 5 p. m. at North park.

Win Two Titles.

Flockenzier's men cinched the second half and league championships yesterday when they defeated Prospect park, 13 to 10, in the second game of the second half playoff series. Johns park, first half champion, and Prospect, tied for the second half title to necessitate the playoff.

Yesterday's game was a slugfest as the score indicates, and it took a mighty home run by Bill Ross in the seventh with the bases loaded to win the decision. Ross' Ruthian clout was the big blow-off as the Johnnies tallied seven runs in the seventh.

Prospect held the lead only once after taking a 1 to 0 advantage in the first half of the opening inning. The Prospectors tallied three times in the fifth to take a lead that was not erased until the Johnnies' big seventh splurge.

Freddy Garver started on the hillock for the champions, but was relieved by Jim Fullager early in the fourth when the Prospectors threatened to duplicate their three-run uprising of the previous inning.

Fullager stopped the Prospects with one run, but ran into trouble in the next frame when three errors and Judy's triple gave the losers three runs and the lead.

The Johnnies' ace settled down from then on, and gave up only two more runs to receive credit for the triumph. He struck out nine.

Al Stickler did the heaving for the Prospectors. In addition to yielding a dozen hits, Stickler issued nine walks to lighten the scoring task of the winners.

Hits Home Run.

Stickler's home run with Longshore aboard in the third featured the 13-hit attack for the Prospect club.

Kenny Ross, Bride and Lewis obtained two hits apiece to lead the Johnnies' offensive, while Longshore collected a triple and two singles for Manager Johnny Valentine's men.

Up In Standings.

G. W. Ritter of Toledo, A. I. Davey of Mansfield, H. D. Smith of Cadiz, and S. A. Sanford of Lorain, blasted out 82's to figure well up in the standings.

* * *

E. W. Phelps of Cleveland, who won the tournament last year, is not competing as he has left the state.

Ex-Governor George White, who made his debut in the tournament this year, carded scores of 55 and 58 for 113, one of the highest scores of the day.

C. E. Ransome of Coshocton, who at 81 was the oldest player in the affair last year, held the same distinction again this year, and put together rounds of 58 and 61 for a 119.

Davey's 82 led the Mansfield participants, with W. J. Spreng, a former champion, shooting an 86; S. E. Findlay, 93; H. S. Black, 99; Ed Baxter, 100; T. R. Barnes, 100; C. S. Dickey, 103; W. M. Weldon, 112; J. M. Cook, 120.

Ontario, Lucas Clash Sunday

A game that should attract a record crowd will be staged in Ontario Sunday when the Ontario club faces Lucas. Ontario has registered 14 straight victories. Lucas also sports an enviable record.

Manager Harold Marshall of Ontario expects to start Tommy Tucker, who has won eight of the 14 straight victories. Lefty Diehl will probably oppose.

ZANESVILLE GOLFER LEADS OHIO SENIORS' PARADE

piled a subpar 35 on the outside nine, and rolled up a 42 on the incoming round to card a 77 for first place.

Hull and Balph accounted for 78's to establish themselves as Carey's most serious contenders.

Carey, on the shady side of 55, used up only 10 putts on the first nine, an unheard of achievement in the Ohio tournament, and would have finished with a much lower score had his irons not turned sour.

The Zanesville man started the first round with a pair of "birdies," then he chalked up six straight pars. He "bogied" No. 9 to lose a chance to shoot at least a 34. The only hole he failed to one-putt on the first nine was No. 8, the shortest hole on the round.

Carey's iron shots were wild on the incoming round, although his putter lost little of its magic.

He was over par on every hole on the last nine except on No. 15, which he "birdied" with a deuce, and No. 18 which he parred.

Hull and Balph both shot their best rounds on what is considered the easier incoming nine. They carded 41's on the first nine, but rallied to finish with 37's. Balph climaxed the first 18 with a deuce.

Following in the scoring were F. H. Felton, 1935 and 1936 champion, and W. D. Foden, both of Cleveland, who rounded the fast layout in 81's.

BRADY'S WPA ALL-STARS WHIP MORAHAN MARKETS

Led by Hymes, who cracked out a triple and two singles, Brady's WPA All-Stars scored all of their runs in the first four innings to defeat the Morahan Markets, 7 to 4, at the Fairground yesterday. Only two of the 11 players to appear in the All-Stars' lineup failed to obtain at least one hit.

RAMBLERS SCORE VICTORY OVER HUMPHRYES, 6-3

Scoring three runs in the first inning to obtain a lead that was never relinquished, the Ramblers whipped the Humphryes softball team, 6 to 3, at Temple court yesterday. Parr led the winners with a double and single. Gross of the losers hit for the circuit.

Reds' Nine Games With Bucs Key to Race

By SID FEDER
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

THE National league pennant race—if there's going to be one from here in—is now squarely up to Will McKechnie and his streaky Reds.

With Pittsburgh's parading Pirates riding along on a seven-game lead at this writing, and what is left of the once-proud Giants resting fourth place, Cincinnati's alternately hot-and-cold outfit either can make a fight of it, or just let it die a natural death.

For, with the season down to its last 30-or-so games the Reds tangle with the Pirates nine times before they ring down the curtain Oct. 2. No other club meets the Blazin' Bucs more than five times the rest of the way, and 15 of the 32 tilts left on the Pittsburgh calendar are against second division outfits.

Thus, if McKechnie can get his boys steamed up when Pittsburgh comes to town (six of the nine games are in Cincinnati), things still are likely to pop.

The Pittsburghers, after a sloppy showing all through August, had just about everything yesterday as they opened the final month with a 6-0 whitewashing of the Giants. Bob Klinger, coming off the hospital list, tossed a seven-hitter, and "Li'l Poison" Lloyd Waner led a 12-hit attack with a triple and three singles.

This defeat for the Giants, coupled with the Cubs' tight 4-2 decision over the Boston Bees behind Clay Bryant's classy elbowing, mixed up the first division standings like boarding house hash.

The American league has no such fuss for the flag. The Yankees, although dropping their second straight to the Detroit Tigers, 6-3, are in about as much danger as the fellow who has the Army and Navy for a bodyguard. They boast a 13-game lead.

Boston's second-place Red Sox nipped Buck Newsom and the St. Louis Browns, 5-3, on Jimmy Foxx's 39th homer. And Jimmy Dykes' Chicago White Sox swept their series with Senators on an 11-6 finale win, despite Al Simmons' 19th homer, a new high for a Washington walloper.

For the third straight game, the Cardinals went all out to outlast the Phillies, 6-5, winning in the ninth behind Curt Davis' steady flinging.

SHELBY BOWLING ALLEYS TO OPEN TONIGHT

SHELBY—The Ferguson bowling alleys will open for the 1938-39 season tonight, Bill Ferguson, owner of the alleys, announced today. The alleys have been completely resurfaced.

Romps to Win In Trot Stake

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Meredith, brown colt by Spencer-Emily Guy, assumed a hero's role today in the Ohio state fair's harness race program. Too ill to take the track Tuesday when he had a temperature of 104, Meredith romped home a winner Thursday in the Governor's stake, $1,500 feature event of the day. Driven by George Hunter and owned by B. A. Millikan, Youngstown, the colt took the first two heats in the three-year-old trotting classic.

Wayne Smart, Delaware, piloted Alice at Law, owned by H. C. Cappel, New Philadelphia, to victory in the 2:17 pace, winning all three heats, and the Mansfield-owned Gayety to a 5-6-5 finish in the 3-year-old pace.

CANTON NEARLY 'IN'

PORTSMOUTH—(AP)—With but six more games left in the Mid-Atlantic league season, the Canton Terriers brought their three and one-half game lead here today and put it up before the second-place Red Birds.

Rams to Face Razzle-Dazzle Stuff Tonight

Watts Builds Wide-Open Attack to Whip Pros.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Advance signs point to a battle between the rival gridiron philosophies of razzle-dazzle versus powerhouse when the Ohio College All-Stars meet the professional Cleveland Rams tonight in the lakefront stadium.

Coach Ray Watts of the All-Stars, leading exponent of razzle-dazzle football, has drilled the Collegians in a wide-open game as the best way to topple the Rams.

His starting backfield probably will be Bob Cummins, Xavier, at quarterback; Marty Slovak, Toledo, and Jack Wagner, Miami, halfbacks, and Jim McDonald, Ohio State giant who starred Wednesday night in the All-Star game at Chicago, at fullback.

Cummins and Slovak each have exhibited their ability to toss the passes while Doc Kelker, Western Reserve All-Star end, piled up a remarkable "catching" record during his varsity career.

While the All-Stars will be handicapped by not having played as a unit before, the renovated Rams will not be much ahead on that point. Coach Hugo Bezdek will present five newcomers in his opening lineup with nearly a score of others in reserve.

The starting recruits will be ends Jack Giannoni, St. Mary's, Calif., and Ralph Bowyer, New Mexico; tackle Art Lewis, Ohio U.; fullback Carl Littlefield, Washington State, and Bob Davis, University of Kentucky halfback.

VITT CHEERED BY FELLER'S PERFORMANCE AGAINST A'S

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — With Cleveland sports critics turning their attention elsewhere after the August collapse of the Indians, Manager Oscar Vitt today felt a quiet glow of inner optimism for 1939 as the "new" Bob Feller returned to winning form.

The young southpaw won his 13th victory of the season Thursday when he beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 11 to 4, and the way he did it must have warmed Vitt's heart.

Feller allowed only seven hits, struck out eight, and, most significant, issued only three bases on balls. Seldom was he "behind" the batter on balls and strikes in contrast to his earlier experience when lack of control constantly put the young pitcher in a "hole."

Not only Feller's performance but the continued heavy hitting by Indian batters, even if only against the last-place Athletics moundsmen, brought a smile to Vitt.

The Tribe pounded out 12 hits and scored only one less run as a result of three doubles, two triples, five walks and three enemy errors. Jeff Heath, young outfielder who has been slugging the ball all week, sparked the Tribe attack with a triple and single and drove in two runs. Bruce Campbell, Roy Weatherly and Rollie Hemsley clouted the doubles, while Feller himself chipped in with a three-base hit to drive in two runs.

The Indians spend today travelling to St. Louis where they open their final series there Saturday against the Browns.

Samuel – Spiritual Revival

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Sept. 4 is I Samuel 7:1-17, the Golden Text being 7:3, "Prepare your hearts unto the Lord, and serve him only.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

OF NO MAN in the Old Testament can it be said more truthfully than of Samuel that "he wore the white flower of a blameless life." Of his unselfish life the people to whom he had been a life-long blessing said, "Thou hast not defrauded us, nor oppressed us, neither hast thou taken ought of any man's hand."

A Call to Repentance.

Samuel challenged the people to bring about a genuine change of their own hearts as a requisite to God's bringing about a change of their outer circumstances. He pointed out the way of repentance as the way of recovery, saying, "If ye do return unto the Lord with all your hearts, then put away the strange gods from among you, and prepare your hearts unto the Lord, and serve him only and he will deliver you out of the hand of the Philistines." It was a period of great national depression and distress which invited the attack of the nation's enemies. For their defense Samuel urged them to rearm themselves spiritually, with the result that the people came in penifence and the self-discipline of fasting, crying, "We have sinned against the Lord." To Samuel they appealed, "Cease not to cry unto the Lord our God for us, that He will save us." This was all that God was waiting for: "Samuel cried unto the Lord for Israel; and the Lord heard him." And a study of America's spiritual revival, and the way they have prepared the way for the return of prosperity after depression reveals the same definite relation of cause and effect between a nation's spiritual and economic recovery. History has repeated itself so often in this matter that it is strange that a nation calling itself Christian, as we do, would not try it!

"Ebenezer."

When Samuel's method of recovery by way of revival had brought the nation deliverance he saw to it that the lessons of the depression period should not be forgotten: "Then Samuel took a stone, and set it between Mizpeh and Shen and called the name of it Ebenezer saying, Hitherto hath the Lord helped us." He did not vainly take to himself the credit for the change of the nation's condition as though he had planned it that way, but he gave the credit to Jehovah and to guarantee perpetual remembrance of this and gratitude for it he engraved in stone the acknowledgement of the nation's debt to God for blessings bestowed. The founders of our nation had much the same idea in mind for us when upon the recommendation of Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson, they adopted as the Great Seal of the United States a pyramid surmounted by the all-seeing eye of him whom they regarded as having prospered their undertakings, for the words over the eye read "Annuit Coeptis," which is but another way of saying, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

SENDS CHARGES

Bates Forwards Warrants for 2 Held in Elyria Hold-up.

Police Chief M. K. Bates today forwarded warrants to the Elyria police department on two Mansfield men held there in connection with a gasoline station hold-up and accused in the robberies of three gasoline stations here.

The warrants, charging highway robbery, named John Lee Asbury, alias Charles Donovan, and Sam Schambera, alias Sam Moran, who both said they were from Mansfield.

Arrested in connection with the Lorain county hold-up at Elyria, they confessed to the three gasoline station robberies here last month, Chief Bates said.

Warrants issued from the local department will not be pressed until the Elyria charges are disposed of, police said.

The pair was apprehended in a Lorain hotel four hours after the Elyria hold-up.

THEATER

A FINE old actress comes out of retirement to play a role in "The Young in Heart." She is Minnie Dupree, 63, who was once leading woman for Richard Mansfield in "Don Juan," and who starred in such plays as "Way Down East," "Heidelberg," "The Music Master" with David Warfield, and in "The Road to Yesterday." Although she retired in 1930 she came back three years later to play Aunt Ophelia in the revival of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" on Broadway, and in 1936 she was in Earl Carroll's Vantities. She will play the role of Ellen Fortune in Selznick's "Young in Heart." Paulette Goddard, who is almost a myth to the picture fans because she is heard of frequently but seldom seen, makes her long delayed appearance in the film. It will be her second appearance on the screen and her first talking role. She played opposite Chaplin in his last picture.

His Severest Critics.

Edward G. Robinson's severest critics are not his best friends, for his most critical letters are from the men he so ably portrays on the screen—men of the underworld. Robinson never portrays a gangster that he doesn't receive flocks of letters from men in prisons and those who admittedly should be, and always they add to their compliments some word of criticism which has to do with realism. Perhaps he has used the wrong inflection, or the wrong expression from the real gangster's viewpoint. These letters constitute one of the most interesting phases of Robinson's fan mail. But he plays a new type of character in his latest picture, "I Am the Law," for he turns to the side of the law in his role of racket-busting prosecuting attorney. It's at the Ohio.

Remains on Deck

The boy on the burning deck had nothing on Stan Laurel in his new picture, "Blockheads," for when his superior officer in the World war tells him to stay on duty in a trench, he stays and stays. The monotony is broken by a plane flying overhead and when Stan takes a shot at it and brings down an irate flyer he is surprised to learn that the war has been over 20 years. This is an hilarious opening for the Laurel and Hardy comedy which is current at the Madison Minna Gombel is Hardy's shrewish wife and Patricia Ellis is the wife of big, bombastic Billy Gilbert who returns from a big game hunt at the wrong time.

Thundering Herd.

Thousands of stampeding steers climax the action of "Pioneer Trail" which Brings Jack Luden and Joan Barclay to the Majectic screen in a western film today and Saturday. Luden is seen as a daredevil Texan who leads a cattle drive into another state only to lose it to rustlers. Determined to run another herd through the same territory, he starts again and this time there are lives as well as fortunes at stake. When the herd stampedes and goes thundering through a border town, the action reaches its climax. Frances Mercer and Allan Lane, two newcomers in pictures, are featured in "Crime Ring." Miss Mercer was seen in "Blind Alibi" and in "Vivacious Lady."

No. 1 Cowboy at Ritz.

Gene Autry, who is No. 1 screen attraction among western actors, comes to the Ritz today, for a two-day engagement, in "Red River Valley," with his old side-kick, Smiley Burnett. Spectacular backgrounds are provided by photographic shots of Boulder dam, actually taken at the dam. The story follows the Arizona cattleman's long struggle for water rights, with political tricksters as their enemies. The usual cowboy songs and romance of the Autry films will be found in "Red River Valley." The second feature, "Sinners In Paradise," is a dramatic story of seven people stranded on an uncharted island and whose real selves come to the surface when the thin veneer of civilization is peeled off. John Boles and Madge Evans head the cast

GADGET PICKS UP PLANE'S AIRMAIL

CENTRALIA, Ill.—(AP)—E. J. White has worked out a gadget which he says will enable an airplane to discharge and receive mail in one operation, without landing.

The device, which works satisfactorily with a model, includes a V-shaped "station" which would sack would be picked up, all in one operation.

White has received a patent on his gadget. He says patents have been granted for nine similar devices, but that none was satisfactory in actual operation.

be mounted on top of a building. The "V" would be wide enough for the pilot to hit his mark with a dangling mail sack. When the sack hit the point of the "V," it would be discharged and the other Philadelphia Has Lowest Crime Record. Claim.

PHILADELPHIA —(UP)— Mayor S Davis Wilson has announced that an analysis of the quarterly bulletin of the federal bureau of investigation disclosed that Philadelphia has the lowest crime record among the nation's major municipalities.

"It is gratifying to know that Philadelphia again is the No. 1 city of the nation in crime fighting," Wilson said. "This is the fourth straight time Philadelphia has retained this remarkably good record."

In the analysis by the department of public safety, New Orleans was second and Buffalo third in the April to June period.

SHARK LIVER DELICACY

SAN RAFAEL, Cal. — (U.P.) — Shark fishing has become a new industry off the Marin county coast. Shark liver sells for 10 cents a pound and is declared to rival filet of sole for delicacy. Several firms are now engaged in the new line of fishing.

POPEYE— Wimpy Is Not Himself. By Segar

I AM DISCOURAGED AT THE LACK OF DEMONS FOR DEMON-BURGERS-IN FACT, I AM BEGINNING TO DOUBT IF SUCH A THING AS DEMONS EXIST !!
PERHAPS IT WAS ONLY AN OPTICAL ILLUSION WHEN I THOUGHT I SAW MISS OYL PULLED INTO THE GROUND OR PERHAPS I ONLY DREAMT IT HAPPENED
AFTER ALL, NO ONE EVER SAW THE DEMONS
HOW SILLY OF ME TO BELIEVE IN SUCH NONSENSE
THAT'S WIMPY-- HE DOESN'T BELIEVE IN DEMONS
OH, SO THAT'S WIMPY
MAYBE WE OUGHT TO PULL HIM DOWN AND HAVE SOME WIMPY-BURGERS
MY NAME IS JONES- I'M ONE OF THE JONES BOYS!

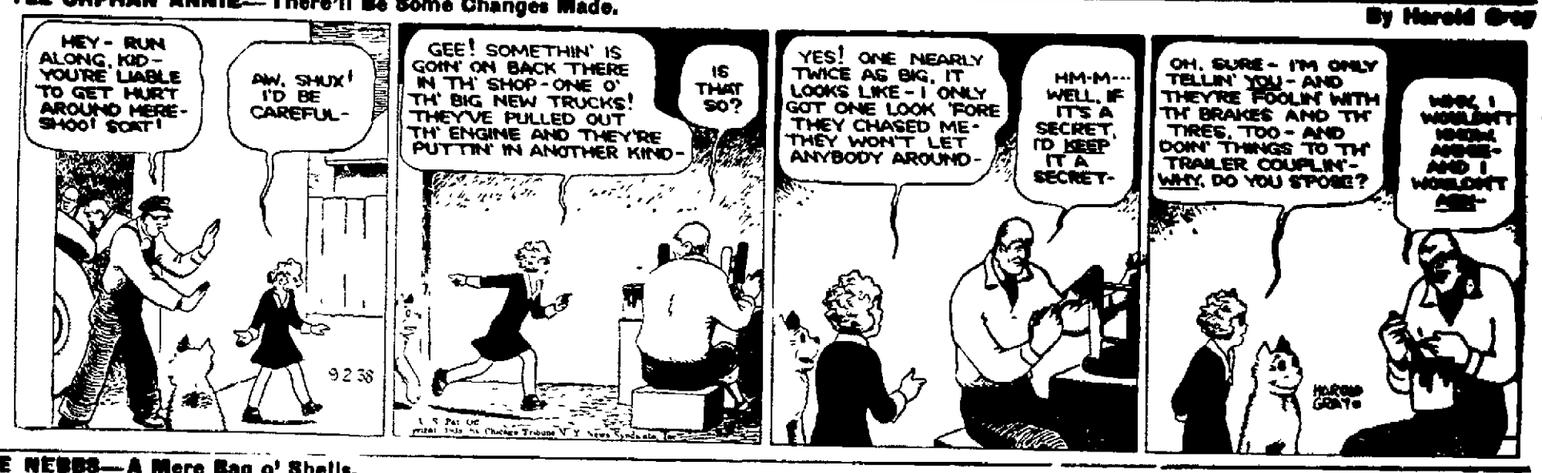
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE— There'll Be Some Changes Made. By Harold Gray



HEY- RUN ALONG, KID- YOU'RE LIABLE TO GET HURT AROUND HERE- SHOO! SCAT!
AW, SHUX! I'D BE CAREFUL-
9238
GEE! SOMETHIN' IS GOIN' ON BACK THERE IN TH' SHOP-ONE O' TH' BIG NEW TRUCKS! THEY'VE PULLED OUT TH' ENGINE AND THEY'RE PUTTIN' IN ANOTHER KIND-
IS THAT SO?
YES! ONE NEARLY TWICE AS BIG, IT LOOKS LIKE- I ONLY GOT ONE LOOK 'FORE THEY CHASED ME- THEY WON'T LET ANYBODY AROUND-
HM-M--- WELL, IF IT'S A SECRET, I'D KEEP IT A SECRET-
OH, SURE- I'M ONLY TELLIN' YOU- AND THEY'RE FOOLIN' WITH TH' BRAKES AND TH' TIRES, TOO- AND DOIN' THINGS TO TH' TRAILER COUPLIN'- WHY, DO YOU SPOSE?
HARRUM GRRTS
HMM, I WOULDN'T KNOW, ARNIE- AND I WOULDN'T ASK-

AM— "Mr. Johnson" Departs. By A. W. Brewerton

THE NERVOUS STRANGER HAS CONVINCED THE OLD COLONEL THAT HE, THE CALLER, IS THE OWNER OF THE LOST BILL-FOLD!
HUM!- WELL, I GUESS THERE'S NO DOUBT IT'S YOURS, MR JOHNSON- DON'T YOU THINK SO PAMELA ?
I FEEL SURE OF IT, COLONEL CAREY
YEH! -THAT'S IT- THAT'S MINE, ALL RIGHT !
THE COLONEL, ALTHOUGH HE DIDN'T KNOW THE MAN WAS A CROOK, HAD, LIKE PAM, BEEN RATHER UNFAVORABLY IMPRESSED WITH THE STRANGERS APPEARANCE, MANNER, ETC.- THIS MAY HAVE BEEN ONE REASON FOR HIS FURTHER REMARKS -
THERE'S JUST ONE THING, MR. JOHNSON --
---THAT'S A LOT OF MONEY YOU LOST; YOU'RE VERY FORTUNATE TO GET IT ALL BACK!- I DIDN'T FIND IT, YOU KNOW, AM ONLY ACTING FOR SOME ONE ELSE - NOW, WE'VE BEEN CURIOUS TO KNOW WHY YOU DIDN'T ADVERTISE FOR IT - OFFER A REWARD?
OH - EH - A REWARD, HEY? - SURE! - I'LL PAY A REWARD! HERE - GIVE 'EM THIS - AND - MUCH OBLIGED TO YEH!
JUST THEN A CLIENT CAME INTO THE OUTER OFFICE AND "MR. JOHNSON" LEFT HURRIEDLY!
-HE TOOK A FEW BILLS FROM THE WALLET AND THREW THEM ON THE DESK!

THE NEBBS— A Mere Bag o' Shells. By Sol Hess

STEVE, YOU'D BETTER GO OUT AND TAKE A PEEK AT YOUR CAR - A GUY TAKING SOME CATTLE FOR A JOY RIDE, SIDE-SWIPED ME-KNOCKED OFF THE RUNNING BOARD AND FENDER. PUT A BIG DENT IN THE BODY YOU COULD SLEEP IN!
STEVE, I FEEL TERRIBLE - AND TO THINK YOU WERE KIND ENOUGH TO LOAN HIM YOUR FINE CAR - I HAD A PRESENTI-MENT OF THIS!
YOU TALK LIKE IT WAS MY FAULT- EVER SINCE I WAS A LITTLE CHILD YOU'VE BEEN SAVING UP BLAMES FOR ME!
DON'T WORRY-- SAMMY WASN'T HURT- THAT'S SOMETHING TO BE THANK-FUL FOR!
THE CAR IS INSURED - IF IT WASN'T, THERE'S MORE WHERE THAT CAME FROM SO DON'T BLAME SAMMY- EVERYTHING IS EVEN ATTA BOY, STEVE, YOU AIN'T ONLY A BRICK - YOU'RE THE YARD WHERE THEY PILES THEM!!

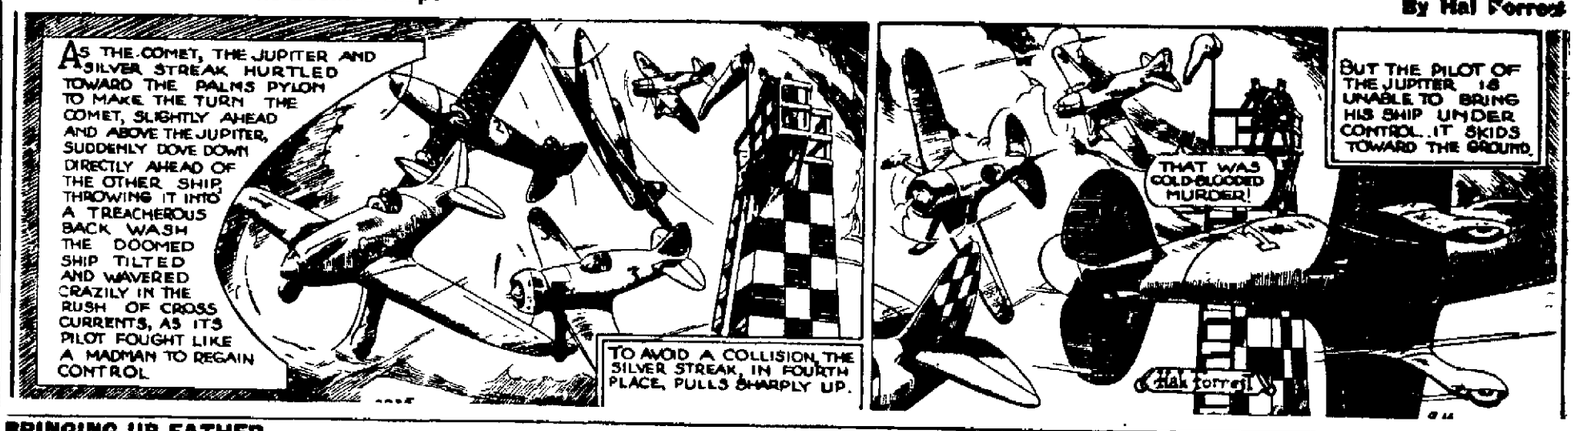
TAILSPIN TOMMY— The Doomed Ship! By Hal Forrest



AS THE COMET, THE JUPITER AND SILVER STREAK HURTLED TOWARD THE PALMS PYLON TO MAKE THE TURN THE COMET, SLIGHTLY AHEAD AND ABOVE THE JUPITER, SUDDENLY DOVE DOWN DIRECTLY AHEAD OF THE OTHER SHIP, THROWING IT INTO A TREACHEROUS BACK WASH THE DOOMED SHIP TILTED AND WAVERED CRAZILY IN THE RUSH OF CROSS CURRENTS, AS ITS PILOT FOUGHT LIKE A MADMAN TO REGAIN CONTROL
TO AVOID A COLLISION, THE SILVER STREAK, IN FOURTH PLACE, PULLS SHARPLY UP.
BUT THE PILOT OF THE JUPITER IS UNABLE TO BRING HIS SHIP UNDER CONTROL. IT SKIDS TOWARD THE GROUND.
THAT WAS COLD-BLOODED MURDER!

JUDGE PUFFLE By Gene Ahern

I WARN YOU WOMAN!--- HAVE A CARE!--I CAME FROM A FAMILY TRACED FAR BACK IN HISTORY, AS DISTINGUISHED WARRIORS ON THE FIELD OF BATTLE! ---DON'T GOAD ME TO DRASTIC ACTION!--- IF YOU HURL THAT VASE AT ME, I'LL DROP THIS LAMP, BY NOAH!
DRAT IT,--LISTEN TO ME!--- DO YOU RECALL THAT MOUNTAIN PROPERTY OUT NEAR TERRY'S RANCH, WHICH WAS DEEDED TO ME LAST SUMMER?---WELL!--- OIL WAS DISCOVERED ON IT! ---OIL!---YES, BLACK GOLD! TERRY BROUGHT ME WORD OF IT AND WE CAUGHT THE NEXT TRAIN OUT TO THE PROPERTY ---I DIDN'T HAVE TIME TO TELL YOU ABOUT IT!---
YOU EXPECT ME TO BELIEVE THAT?--- ---PUT DOWN THAT LAMP, YOU BARN OWL!
YOU REACHED HIGH FOR THAT ONE, JUDGE!

FOREIGN SCENE CONTINUES TO RESTRAIN MART

Selected Stock Groups Show Improvement as Dealings Hit Slow Pace.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Selected stocks looked a bit better in today's market but dealings were even slower than in yesterday's dawdling session.

A few steels and motors edged forward, while rails continued backward and numerous issues were at a standstill near the second hour.

Improvement of fractions to around a point was registered for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda, International Nickel, Du Pont and Allied Chemical.

Stocks Off Shade.

Off a shade were N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Electric Power & Light, Owens-Illinois, U. S. Gypsum, Johns-Manville and Union Carbide.

The foreign scene continued to restrain buyers although some hope for peace was seen in the fact that, while Hitler refused to accept the Czechoslovakian compromise plan on the Sudeten German controversy, the way was left open for further negotiations.

The railroad wage cut impasse together with the approach of the Labor Day holiday, helped keep many traders out of the market.

Despite cloudier sentiment in some Wall Street quarters, market analysts found week-end trade reviews moderately cheerful

Dun & Bradstreet noted retail spending this week picked up 3 to 6 per cent over the preceding week but was 2 to 7 per cent under the aggregate in the corresponding 1937 period

Not so pleasing though was the estimate of the week's wholesale activities which were placed at ""slightly lower" than last week and 10 to 16 per cent below the same week a year ago.

Attention was given statements of federal reserve member banks in New York City for the week ended Wednesday which disclosed that commercial loans after advancing for three consecutive weeks, were off $1,000 000.

MAYOR SCORES ON N. Y. VISIT

Climaxes 50-Hour Stay in Big City by Stealing 'Thunder' of Congressman in Talk.

ped into the ocean, and this same thing is true when a sale of merchandise is made. The results of that one transaction are far reaching in industry, business."

The mayor later found out that Congressman Barton had planned to use the same simile and the same mesage in his talk to the executives.

Barton's was a prepared address and copies of it had gone out to New York newspapers and by the time the luncheon was over, the papers were on the street. Stories about the luncheon were on Page 1 and were accompanied by pictures of Barton.

Barton didn't duplicate the mayor's statement concerning the wide effect of an individual sale when he gave his address after Hunter had spoken, but his prepared speech was printed in the New York newspapers and this is the way they quoted him:

"Just as you can't toss a pebble into a pool of water without making ripples, so you can't make and sell even one radio, one lamp or an electric iron without having an effect in making what the country needs most—Jobs."

The mayor thought up HIS example while on a train en route to New York Tuesday night, so who wouldn't get a smile of satisfaction.

A. E. Allen, vice president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, also attended the luncheon. A recent order for 25,000 electric irons received by the Westinghouse company is part of the Consolidated Edison company's "Jobs for Men" campaign.

GUNMEN ROB 90 AT CHURCH

Fire Shot Into Ceiling, Then Line Up Victims in Basement.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Two gunmen wearing dark glasses held up 50 men and 40 women in the basement halls of St. Helen's Catholic church last night and escaped with $200.

To announce their presence one of the robbers fired a shot into the ceiling. He stood guard over the men while his companion walked into an adjoining hall, where the women were meeting, and emptied a box containing $200 in dues.

HITS WPA BOSS

Discharged Worker Held After Striking Superior With Shovel.

CLEVELAND—(UP)—K. C. Newman, 48, a WPA foreman, was in serious condition in a hospital today, his skull crushed by the shovel of a workman he laid off for insubordination.

Marshal G. H. Christman of North Olmstead said Charles MacMurray, 29, would be held without charge pending the outcome of Newman's injuries.

letters outlining the proposed $1,000,000 school building program for the city will be distributed to homes.

The board of education is scheduled to meet in special session Saturday night to set up further plans for the bond campaign and to formally accept the federal government's $450,000 PWA allocation for the building program.

Acceptance of the grant will mean little, however, unless the bond issue, which would supplement the PWA funds, is approved by a 65 per cent vote at the special election, board members pointed out.

The bond issue must be approved by Oct. 1 or the government grant will be withdrawn. Work on the project, if approved, must be started by Jan. 1, 1939, according to PWA rules.

Although voters turned down the proposed bond issue by a slight margin at the Aug. 9 primary, school officials believe it will have a good chance to pass at the special election since there will be no other issues on the ballot.

The building program calls for construction of two new junior high school buildings, an addition to Senior high school, and improvements to eight elementary buildings.

THEFT CHARGES FILED AGAINST 8

New Warrants in Tire Stealing Case Served; 4 Others Held to Grand Jury.

Warrants against eight other persons accused of stealing automobile tires from freight cars were filed today while four others already charged were bound over to the Richland county grand jury after arraignment in municipal court.

New warrants drawn today named Earl Brown 21, of 200 North Diamond street, charged with petit larceny; Clayton Baldwin, 22, of 9 Raymond avenue, receiving stolen property and grand larceny; Love Jacobs, 18, of 258 North Diamond street, grand larceny; Charles Brooks, 21, of 150 Lily street, breaking and entering.

Other warrants, charging breaking and entering and grand larceny, were filed against four youths, all juveniles under 18. Hearings for them will be held tomorrow in juvenile court.

Bound to the grand jury today after waiving preliminary examination were four men named in warrants filed yesterday, all charged with receiving stolen property. They are Daniel Inscore, Mansfield, R. D. 1; James Baker, of 247½ North Main street; Christ Chokreff, of 213 North Diamond street; and David Amato, of 118 Orange street. Sam Brucato, of rear of 268 North Main street, fifth accused of receiving stolen property, was granted a continuance of his case until Tuesday.

Acting Municipal Judge S. H. Cramer fixed bonds at $1,500 in each case.

The charges grew out of the theft of tires from freight cars shipping from the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

'GET IN STEP'

That's Farley's Advice To Republican Maine, Election Near.

WATERVILLE, Me. — (AP) — James A. Farley left today with Maine voters who pick a governor and three U. S. representatives Sept. 12, the advice to "get in step with the rest of the United States."

He told a rally last night that administration leaders were "not at all peeved" when Maine went Republican in the 1936 presidential election; then he added "but expect you back in the fold in 1940."

Shelby

Approximately 100 employes and guests were present Thursday night when the Richland County Farm Bureau met with the employes of the North Central Ohio Creamery for a joint meeting at the farm bureau building in this city. Police Chief Leroy Coffee was the principal speaker. Paul Dessner of Mansfield, chairman of the group, presided during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Swisher and son, Dawson, and daughters, Betty and Virginia, will spend the weekend at a cottage in Michigan.

Members of the United Youth council will be entertained at a special meeting Tuesday night at the home of Miss Dorothy Briggs when plans for participation in the Shelby Community Street Fair will be completed.

Mrs. Leonard Morton, Mrs. A. C. Brumbach and Mrs. Glenn Will won bridge prizes when the members of the Triple Four Bridge club were entertained this week at the home of Mrs. John White.

Mrs. Robert Baker was hostess to her club Wednesday night at her home in Ashland. Misses Florence Tindale and Martha Wentz of Shelby won bridge prizes.

Mrs. Urban Sutter held a farewell party Wednesday evening in honor of Miss May Sutter, who will leave Tuesday to enter a beauty college at Toledo. A miscellaneous shower was given for the guest of honor. Misses Virginia Swisher, Martha and Mary Wagner won game awards.

14 Navy Planes Resume Flight Toward Canal Zone.

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—(INS)—Fourteen navy twin-motored patrol bombers, forced down yesterday in the Gulf of Fonseca by fuel shortage on a 3,000-mile flight to their new base at Coco Solo, C. Z., resumed their trip today, according to radio dispatches to the navy air base here.

RELIEF DROPS

Shelby Expenditures Cut $700 During August.

SHELBY — Relief expenditures in Shelby during the past month have been cut to $770, a report given out today by Gail Haun, relief director, disclosed, although administrative expenses were not in the expenditures for the month. Haun pointed out that less was spent on relief than in other months.

The drop in relief was due, Haun said, to a number of persons being taken off of relief here and being placed on WPA projects in the county. An average of $1,000 a month has been spent here during the summer for relief purposes.

About 213 persons or 53 families remain on the rolls in this city, Haun disclosed. Additional expense is expected this fall when children in relief families will need school clothes and supplies. Fuel will also be added to the expense list, Haun said.

Plans to give additional revenue to relief are expected to be discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the relief committee next week. Shelby's relief coffers have been near empty for the past months.

FORMER SHELBY RESIDENT DIES

SHELBY — Mrs. May MacDurdo, former Shelby resident died Thursday afternoon at her home in Canton following a lingering illness. Mrs. MacDurdo is survived by her husband, Goven, at home; four brothers, Pearl Moore of New London, William of Plymouth, Charles of Mansfield and Clesson of New York; also one sister, Mrs. William Coldwell of Michigan.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Barkdull funeral home here with Rev. A. B. Allison, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Burial will be in New Haven cemetery.

tively engaged in peaceful negotiations with the Prague regime. Hitler's approval of such negotiations was interpreted here as indicating he too prefers a peaceful solution to application of force.

Reconstruction of the republic along "gau" lines would grant virtual independence to the German regions and involve establishment of three "German republics" within the borders of Czechoslovakia as follows:

1. Boehmerwald to Carlsbad.
2. The mining and metallurgical regime along the northern frontier from Komotau to Cablonz.
3. The industrial region in Moravia and Silesia.

This plan would involve territorial autonomy and establish regions with a homogeneous German population, which would be responsible for their own affairs in much the same as northern Ireland manages its own affairs while yet being dependent on the imperial British parliament.

GETS $2,600,000 U. S. CONTRACT

Westinghouse Plant at Denver to Build 3 Giant Generators.

Award of a $2,611,000 contract to the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company for the manufacture and installation of the three largest electric power generators in the world was announced today by Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, dispatches from Washington said.

The generators will be built at the Denver, Colo., plant of the Westinghouse company for installation at the Grand Coulee dam in Washington. The units will comprise installation at the huge federal project on the Columbia river.

ARMY OFFICER DIES

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Funeral arrangements were made today for Lt. Col. Alvin C. Sandeford, 48, intelligence officer of the Fifth corps area, Fort Hayes, for the past two years, who died of injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

TERRY'S FATHER TAKEN BY DEATH

Pneumonia Fatal To Parent of Manager of Giants.

ATLANTA, Ga.—(INS)—W. T. Terry, 59, former produce dealer and father of W. H. "Big Bill" Terry, manager of the New York Giants baseball club, died today in a local hospital of pneumonia after a short illness.

Terry was taken ill about a week ago and was removed to the hospital shortly after. He resided at a downtown hotel.

In addition to the son, he is survived by his wife and three sisters, Mrs. J. G. Ison, and Mrs. Lena Ewing, Atlanta, and Mrs. M. C. Lysle, Memphis.

VISITS IN OHIO

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Douglas Corrigan, celebrated "wrong way" trans-Atlantic flier, will visit Columbus and Cincinnati on Sunday.

Corrigan telegraphed that he expects to arrive from Cleveland at Port Columbus at 10 a. m. Sunday. He will leave at noon for Cincinnati.

SELL SCHOOLS

Auction Off Nine Township Buildings at Shelby.

SHELBY—Nine rural one-room school houses in Jackson and Plymouth townships were sold on the auction block Thursday afternoon at the high school auditorium. The buildings sold from about $26 to $670, Miss Cora Boyles, school board clerk, disclosed.

Buildings sold that must be removed from the property within 90 days after the purchase were: Marsh Run, to Rolla Snavely for $105; Hazelgrove to C. L. Stroup, $160; and Faulkner to Ray Faulkner, $47.50; in Plymouth township; and Carnes to J. N. McMahon, $106; and Hautman to H. A. Byer, $26; in Jackson township.

Other schools sold with land were: Landis to John Gfrer of Mansfield, $320; Bricker to S. R. Bricker of Shelby, $402; Clarke to John Gfrer, $415; and Bunker Hill to John Hearhart, $670.

Fall—THE IDEAL TIME FOR WORKING ON YOUR LAWN . . .

Fall is the ideal season for lawn work. Lawns should be fed to beautify them now and to help build resistance against winter-killing. Authorities agree that this is the best time to make new lawns, too. The more uniform moisture conditions at this season and the cool weather are just what grass needs.

We recommend Vigoro when making new lawns as well as for established turf. Vigoro is the Complete Plant Food made by Swift especially for lawn and garden use.

Use Vigoro, too, when you put in your fall vegetables and bulbs. You'll find it the most economical plant food you can use.

TAHITI SETTING FOR DRAMATIC FICTION VOLUME

'The Dark River' Features Latest Group of Additions to Library Shelves.

A stirring and dramatic story with the island of Tahiti as its setting is "The Dark River" by Charles Nordhoff and James Norman Hall, which has been added to the fiction list at Mansfield's public library.

The book relates the experiences of a young Englishman who explores the island and discovers the valley of the Dark river. He becomes involved in a romance with the daughter of a native family which is threatened by racial pride.

The description of the storm which sweeps their boat out to sea and of the various tropic scenes will prove of exceptional interest to the reader.

Also added to the library's shelves of fiction is "A Prayer for Tomorrow" by J. Hyatt Downing. It pictures a small town and its residents as seen through the eyes of an impressionable boy. The town is Rudge, in the South Dakota prairies, during a land boom; and the boy is Lynn McVeigh.

Other fiction includes: "Westward Under Vega", a novel in verse by Thomas Wood Stevens; "Young Man With a Horn" by Baker; "Hasty Wedding" by Eberhart; "Old Sheriff" by Hanchett; "If I Die Before I Wake" by King; "Two-Gun Quaker" by Moore; and "The Wall" by Rinehart.

Writes Travel Story.

The library's new non-fiction list is topped by "Vagabond Voyaging", the story by a former press agent named Larry Nixon who became publisher of a magazine for the travel industry. His story of experiences on the low-rate tramp steamers gives a most tantalizing account of traveling by such means of sea transportation.

"Lost Atlantis" by James Guy Bramwell is another popular boon on the non-fiction list. It deals with the mysterious island about which some many theories have been raised. Bramwell discusses the earliest and the most modern theories and explains the scientific findings in a most interesting manner.

Other non-fiction: "Dorothy Thompson's Political Guide" which has been added to the John Baxter Black Memorial collection; "Dana And The Son" by Stone; "Modern Book Collecting for the Impecunious Amateur" by West; "Some of My Best Friends Are Jews" by Gessner; "Coming Victory of Democracy" by Mann; "Italians of New York," one of American Guide Series; "United States in World Affairs, 1937"; "Save America First" by Frank; "Labor on the March" by Levinson; "Labor Czars" by Seidman; "Labor's New Millions" by Vorse; "Labor Spy Racket" by Huberman; "Government Ownership and Operation of Railways for the U. S." by Sorrell; "Tyrolean June" by Brown; "Most Powerful man in the World" by Roberts; "China Fights Back" by Smedley.

ITALIANS PUSH EXPERIMENT IN HUMAN FLYING

Plan Derby to Check Progress of Inventions to Permit Man to Fly by Own Power.

(By Associated Press)

TURIN, Italy — A group of Italian engineers and aviation enthusiasts, convinced the legend of Icarus some day will become a reality, is trying to develop an apparatus which will enable man to fly with his own muscular power.

Next spring the institute of human muscular flight, which records and analyzes the experiments of the group, will hold a derby here to check up on recent progress. Prizes of from $50 to $250 will be offered for the most successful model and actual flights, if any.

Offers $5,000 Prize.

The Royal Italian Aeronautical union has offered a permanent prize of $5,000 for the Italian who develops a practical apparatus. The city of Turin has added $500 and the institute hopes to augment this by popular subscription.

Experience with gliders has shown that a motorless plane may be kept aloft for extended periods by skillful maneuvering to take advantage of air currents.

Clem Sohn, the American "bird man," who was killed while putting on his act in France more than a year ago, demonstrated the possibility of a human being controlling a parachute dive by bat-like wings attached to the arms and legs.

A "cycleplane" invented by an Italo-American, Enea Bossi, employe of a Philadelphia airplane factory, has made flights lasting more than a minute. The plane resembles an ordinary cabin glider with the addition of two propellers drivin by a geared apparatus which the pilot operates with his feet like a bicycle.

The Italian experimenters, however, are pretty well sold on the idea that muscular flight must discard the airplane type of construction with fixed wings and propellers. It is too heavy, they say, and unadapted to the limitations of human strength.

The muscle fliers learn their lessons from nature, by watching the flight of birds and insects. They analyze the flying of domesticated pigeons, measuring their horsepower and comparing it weight for weigh with that produced by the average man. They keep flies and mosquitoes in captivity until they become so fatigued by their efforts to escape that their wing action slows down and may be studied with the naked eye.

One experimenter, Col. Alberto Bettica, is working on a set of wings weighing about 55 pounds, which he believes may be made to support in the air a man weighing 150 pounds for indefinite periods.

Recent surveys in Wisconsin, Kansas, Georgia, and Illinois indicate farm building repairs are lagging in comparison with former years.

KENNEDY GIVES EUROPE TIP ON AVOIDING WARS

Asserts Power Should Follow U. S.-British Example in Settling Problems.

(By Associated Press)

ABERDEEN, Scotland—United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy gave Europe's leaders a tip today—to follow the example of the United States and Great Britain in settling their differences.

He expressed confidence that British-American devotion to the principle of "good natured settlement" would "keep us out of war."

The ambassador spoke at a luncheon preceding a Scottish-American-Anglican church ceremony at the Cathedral of Aberdeen.

His reference was to settlement of British and American claims over tiny Canton and Enderbury islands in the South Pacific by which both countries decided to use them in common.

"We have just come through most of a dangerous summer when rumors of war are thick on every hand and when actual armed conflicts are in progress in different parts of the world," Kennedy said.

Lays Wars to Impatience.

"Fighting, whether called war or not, and threats of fighting come from the impatience and inability of leaders to work out pacific settlements.

"They are unwilling or unable to keep hold of the past while marching toward the future.

"They feel they must break violently with what has existed, in their zeal to hasten what they believe is proper development, but breaks are unnecessary."

Kennedy made a plea for renewal of faith and spiritual courage in the world in his address at the church ceremony.

"It appears to me," he said, "that we have come to a point where spiritual values have so declined in men that incentive is disappearing.

"We must reawaken the flame of faith and spiritual courage which has always enheartened men of right vision in the world's history."

Lays Cornerstone.

The ambassador laid the cornerstone of a memorial to Bishop Samuel Seabury, who was born Nov. 30, 1728, in Ledyard, Conn., and was consecrated bishop of Connecticut Nov. 14, 1784, in Aberdeen. The ceremony at St. Andrew's Cathedral of the Scottish Episcopal church marked the bond between the Scottish Episcopal church and the American Episcopal church dating from that time.

SET FOR OPENING

Country Day School to Start New Term Wednesday.

Country Day school, Blymyer avenue, will open classes for the new semester next Wednesday, it was announced today by Mrs. Vivian Haynes, director, who returned from Columbia university this week to begin her third year at the progressive education school.

Faculty members returned this week from summer courses at eastern colleges. Mrs. Haynes studied at Columbia, concentrating on the modern elementary school in action and on the diagnosing of reading difficulties. Miss Margaret Cayford, primary teacher, attended the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. Mrs. I. T. Landhy, who has been with the school since its beginning and who is head of the kindergarten, went to Columbia for the study of social science and music for young students. Miss Alice Gay, her assistant, also was as Columbia.

ASKS STAY IN SLAYING TRIAL

Prosecutor Wants Time To Investigate New Conn Case Clues.

CADIZ — (INS) — Prosecutor Frederick Orum today filed a request for a continuance of the murder trial of Peter Serino, Pittsburgh, on charges of slaying Highway Patrolman George Conn.

Judge Barclay W. Moore ordered a hearing on the request for tomorrow morning after Orum said he asked the postponement "in order to further investigate important new developments in the Conn case." He said it would take an indefinite length of time to make the new investigation.

Serino's trial was to have started Tuesday.

$135,000 PWA FUND APPROVED

Washington OK's Grant for Constructing New Sewage System in City.

ASHLAND—Notice of the approval of a grant of 135,000 from PWA funds to further the work of the building of a new sewage disposal plant and for additions to the sewage lines of this city was received here from PWA officials, it has been announced.

The PWA grant, to be supplemented by 165,000, if the citizens of Ashland approve the measure at a special election to be held Sept. 21, will be used to carry on a project which has been advocated by the state department of health.

Voters of this city will go to the polls on Sept. 21, and will determine whether the general taxation bonds for the purpose will be floated. If the measure is approved by the voters, the general taxation bonds will be issued, and should be retired within 25 years, it was announced.

It has been estimated that if bonds are issued, it will mean that a .6892 mill per dollar of taxable property, outside the ten mill limitation will be levied.

4,500 GO TO SCHOOL

ASHLAND—With the opening of schools in Ashland county, close to 3,500 will attend in the areas outside of this city, and nearly 1,000 will attend Ashland high school.

In the county schools, it has been estimated that close to 3,000 will attend, while close to 500 will attend the schools at Loudonville. Loudonville is now an exempted village, and no longer a part of the Ashland county school system.

AIDS JOBLESS

Registrar Assigned to Help Those Filing Claims.

K. L. Debolt had been assigned today as Richland county registrar of the unemployed who are seeking compensation from other states in which they have worked and established their eligibility for benefits.

Debolt will be located at the National Reemployment office, 55 North Diamond street, and will be in the city every Friday afternoon for several weeks to receive registrations.

The Ohio State Unemployment commission already has received 426 claims of eligible unemployed workers for unemployment compensation from other states in which they previously worked and established their rights to benefits.

Ohio will begin payment of unemployment benefits on Jan. 1.

COLTS COMPETE IN SHELBY FAIR

Head of County Association Urges Farmers to Enter Show.

B. B. Pettit, Ontario, president of the Richland County Horse Breeders association, today urged county farmers to enter their colts in the draft colt show which will be held at Shelby Sept. 10 in connection with the street fair. Pettit said any colt born since Jan. 1 and sired by a registered stallion is eligible to compete in the show provided the owner is a member of the county horse breeders' association.

Cash prizes of $10, $8, $6, $4 and $2 will be paid, in classes for purebred Belgians and Percherons, he said. In addition, a trophy will go to the top colt in each class and a ribbon to the grand champion of the colt show.

STEPS FORWARD

N. M. To Use Primary System To Name Election Candidate.

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP) — New Mexico voters will select their candidates in direct primary elections beginning in 1940 instead of at party conventions, as in the past 25 years.

Gov. Clyde Tingley yesterday signed a direct primary bill passed at a special legislative session. Sponsors failed to attach an emergency clause which would have put the primary into effect for this year's nominations.

Zanesville Man, Clevelander Run Neck-and-Neck Race in Golf Tourney Here.

The tournament, over 36 holes comes to a close this afternoon.

Several other early scores were reported, but none of them had a chance to figure in the title chase although it was too early to say how they might figure in the class contests, which are arranged by ages.

At the business meeting last night, F. R. Fishback of Cleveland was elected president of the association to succeed E. M. Ayres of Zanesville, and Mansfield was chosen for the 1939 tournament, the 11th year the city had been host to the event.

Re-elected to office were B. B. Williams, Cleveland, vice president; E. B. Baxter, Mansfield, secretary-treasurer, and Tom Barnes, Mansfield, tournament chairman.

SHOWING GAIN

Perrysville Accident Victim Was in Coma 48 Hours.

PERRYSVILLE — Mrs. Glenn Stake, of near Perrysville, who was seriously injured last Friday when a car in which she was riding with her husband was wrecked on route 89 northeast of here is reported to be improving.

After being unconscious for about 48 hours, Mrs. Stake regained consciousness in an Ashland hospital. After being removed to her home, she was returned to the hospital early this week for observation of possible internal injuries.

The accident happened when the car skidded as Stake sought to avoid a collision with another car.

BUTLER MAN RETIRES AFTER 46 YEARS AT TELEGRAPH KEY

BUTLER—After more than 46 years of continuous service as a telegraph operator on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, A. J. Grubb sent his last message Wednesday evening; and Thursday he spent the first day of his retirement quietly at his home here.

Mr. Grubb, who as a member of the first class to graduate from Butler high school in 1892, entered the service of the B. & O. only a couple of months after his graduation.

After serving as operator at Shelby for about three years, Mr. Grubb was transferred to Butler on Dec. 1, 1895. He has "pounded the key" at the local railroad ever since.

Until about ten years ago the Butler station required the services of three telegraph operators, an agent and a clerk. Then declining railroad business forced the retirement of the agent and clerk. By 1932 two of the operators had been relieved.

For the past six years Mr. Grubb has been both telegraph operator and agent in charge of the Butler station.

Discussing the progress made in railroading in the past few decades, Mr. Grubb says the most noticable change is in the size of locomotives and cars and the length of trains.

He recalls that not so long ago at least six passenger trains stopped daily at Butler and a number of B. O. fast trains went through the village.

Today not a single passenger train stops there.

In the early days of his career as a telegrapher, Mr. Grubb says that wrecks were quite numerous in the Butler area, many of them occurring on the sharp curve in the village.

During the 1913 flood more than a week transpired before the B. & O. was able to resume regular train service because of the damage to tracks and bridges done by the Clear Fork between Butler and Bellville.

After a 15 days' interval during which the Butler office will be operated by a temporary agent, W. B. Grubb, present agent and operator at Bellville, brother of the retiring operator, will take charge of the Butler station.

For many years W. B. Grubb served as operator at Butler along with his brother.

Between them the Grubb brothers have given more than 91 years of service to the B. & O.

While Mr. Grubb did not reveal how he planned to spend his retirement, it is expected that as a member of the Butler board of education he will be kept busy for the next several months with extra responsibilities connected with the new high school building program soon to be launched in the village.

EXHIBIT PHOTOS

Camera Club Members Display Pictures of Animals.

Mansfield Camera club members exhibited their photography work last night as a feature of their semi-monthly meeting at the Chamber of Commerce assembly rooms. The display was limited to pictures of animals.

First prize winner was Mrs. Clarence Luft, Bowman street, for a picture of a dog, George E. Hamilton, 170 West Third street, second with a horse silhouette; T. J. McDermott, 437 Park avenue west, third, with a picture of a sea gull; Mrs. Willard Karschner, fourth, with a picture of a horse, and Dr. Dwight Weir, 102 Sherman avenue, fifth, with a picture of a dog.

Al Strachan, club president, announced that Dever Timmons of Coshocton, an outstanding amateur photographer, will address the club at a meeting in October.

A feature of the club's next meeting, on Sept. 15, will be the opening of a photography school directed by Harry Devine, chief photographer of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Clarence Luft and T. J. McDermott are in charge of arrangements for the September meeting.

Glasses Jinx, But He Still Wants 'Em Back

LOUDONVILLE — John Solomon blames his glasses for a lot of hard luck in the past few days, but he inserted an advertisement in a newspaper today to recover them after they slid from the running board of a car and were lost.

The bad luck started when Solomon ran his hand through a window pane as he prepared to have the glasses fitted. The next night he placed them on the running board of a car and they were lost. While looking for them yesterday he mashed his thumb in the door of his car. Then, to top it off, the car refused to start and he had to call a garageman to tow it home.

GO TO OREGON

3 Mansfielders To Attend U. S. Spanish War Vet Encampment.

Three Mansfielders will attend the national encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans which will be held in Portland, Ore., the week of Sept. 10.

Elmer Fisher is delegate from Camp Charles Dick, Mansfield, and Anson Smith is alternate. Richard H. Rickets will accompany them. They will leave Mansfield Tuesday by train and expect to be gone two weeks.

FUNERAL TODAY

ASHLAND — Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Hamilton, 88, who died at the Ashland county infirmary at 4 a. m. Thursday, were held this morning at Gilbert's chapel here with Rev. M. L. Dohner officiating. Burial was to be made in the cemetery at Mexico, N. Y.

Mrs. Hamilton, who formerly lived in Mexico, is survived by one son, Ernest Hamilton of Ruggles, and two grandsons.

Cannon, unopposed for renomination, found the courthouse plastered with "Vote for Cannon" signs.

That's against the law, so he immediately posted a $25 reward for the arrest of what apparently is one of his most enthusiastic supporters.

CONFIDENCE KEY TO LABOR PEACE IN BRITISH ISLES

Special Commission Reports to President, Who Stresses Cooperation Factor.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A special commission told President Roosevelt today that British industry and labor maintain industrial peace through mutual confidence and co-operation.

The commission, which made a first hand survey of labor relations in England, offered no recommendations.

It said, however, that where collective bargaining agreements mutually satisfactory to national unions and national employes' associations had existed for a long period, strikes had been few and strike violence rare.

Mr. Roosevelt, making the report public just before Labor day commented:

"To me, the most salient feature of it is the co-operative spirit, coupled with restraint, which is shown by those who represent both employers and employes in Great Britain.

"Collective bargaining is an accepted fact and because of this the machinery which carries it out is functioning.

"Experiences of other countries, very naturally, have been different from our own but they should be considered and studied as we analyze our own problems. A second report x x x will give us a parallel study of industrial relations in Sweden."

No CIO Representative.

When Mr. Roosevelt appointed the eight-member labor commission last spring, John L. Lewis declined to permit a representative of his CIO to serve. Robert Watts represented the AFL.

Other commission members were: Gerard Swope, Charles R. Hook and Henry Harriman, representing business; Lloyd K. Garrison and Miss Marion Dickerman, on behalf of education; William E. Chalmers, assistant labor commissioner, William H. Davis, former deputy NRA administrator, and Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, a regional director for the social security board, representing government.

SUMMARY OF REPORT

Here is a summary of a presidential commission's report on labor conditions in Great Britain:

1. Employers and workers generally accept the principle of collective bargaining to maintain industrial peace.

2. Strike violence is rare because "the job belongs to the man" and neither side in a dispute wants to hinder a quick settlement.

3. National unions and national organizations of employers negotiate settlements of labor disputes.

4. The big trade union congress holds that no union has the exclusive right to organize a particular class of workers.

5. Both workers and employers want strong organizations to represent their own and the other side.

6. The closed shop and check-off systems are rare.

7. Trade unions have a recognized legal status and are immune from blame for wrongful acts except in connection with coercion against the government. Union trustees may be held responsible for the union's wrongful acts.

PUBLIC TO VISIT MEMORIAL HALL

'Open House' Arranged For Tomorrow as Renovated Building Opens.

Completing an extensive program of re-decorating, repairs and alterations to the Memorial building, Park avenue west, the board of trustees today announced that the building will be open to public inspection tomorrow afternoon and evening.

Started last spring, the renovation program embraced extensive replacement of flooring, refinishing of walls and other improvements making the building what is claimed to be one of the most outstanding in the country serving as quarters for military and patriotic organizations.

After Saturday, the board announced, the building will be opened again for organizations having meeting quarters there.

The board announced that the improvements were made without cost to Mansfield or Madison township. The program was financed through rentals obtained from the theater part of the structure.

Trustees on the board are: M. Dale Ward, president; Carrie N. Willett, secretary-treasurer; Rufus H. King, Walter L. Beckley, William F. Voegele, Sam V. Fox and Herbert W. Gibbs.

During the public inspection hours tomorrow, the Charles Dick Camp, Spanish war veterans, will act as host.

Negotiate to Show Earhart's Flight Exploits In Film

HOLLYWOOD —(UP)— George Palmer Putnam, husband of the late Ameha Earhart, said he had been approached by representatives of Howard Hughes regarding the production of a picture based on Miss Earhart's life.

Putnam and his agent, William Hawks, said they also had been approached by representatives of Katharine Hepburn regarding the possibility of making a film test of Miss Earhart's exploits.

If Hughes makes the picture, it was reported, Katharine Hepburn probably will play the leading role.

William Hawks, Putnam's agent, said while no scenario had been written based on the life of Miss Earhart, the basis for a story is available in her posthumous book, "Last Flight," and in a biography now being written by Putnam.

PROGRAM WILL TAKE PLACE OF LABOR PARADE

City's Observance of Annual Holiday Gets Under Way at 1 P. M. Monday.

The detailed program for Mansfield's Labor day celebration was announced today by the Mansfield Industrial council, sponsoring this year's observance.

Festivities will take place at North Lake park beginning at 1 p. m. There will be no parade as in previous years, but committeemen have rounded out a full program for the afternoon and evening celebration.

Opening the observance at 1 p. m. will be addresses by Mayor C. M. Hunter, Elmer O. Fahlhaber of Cleveland, secretary of the Ohio Non-Partisan league; George W. Biddle, Mansfield attorney; Rev. Mark A. Vogel, assistant pastor of St. Peter's church, and Rev. Paul E. Hollingshead, pastor of Central Methodist church.

Boxing Show on Program.

A boxing show consisting of six bouts will start at 2:30 p. m., with Mansfield, Wooster and Ashland youths competing.

Eight different races for boys and girls have been arranged for the afternoon with prizes being offered winners. Another feature will be a tug-of-war for men and boys. A kittenball game has been scheduled for 5:30 p. m.

Dancing will be under way at the Coliseum both in the afternoon and evening with music by the Westinghouse orchestra. There will be no charge for dancing.

The committee in charge of the celebration is headed by Harry Boyer and Joseph Snyder.

REJECTION DUE

Mexico to Refuse New U. S. Plan on Expropriations.

MEXICO CITY—(U.P.)—President Lazaro Cardenas will officially reject probably today or tomorrow, the renewed United States proposal to arbitrate the dispute over Mexico's expropriation of $10,000,000 worth of American-owned farmlands, a trustworthy source revealed.

Mexico's attitude was outlined yesterday by Cardenas in his speech opening the regular session of congress. Cardenas stated firmly that expropriation of foreign-owned lands was a matter purely for Mexicans; that the agrarian program of "Mexico for Mexicans" had to go on.

Aside from flat rejection of arbitration proposals, the reply was expected to renew an offer to discuss with the United States the value of the lands affected.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 2 1938

That chip on Hitler's shoulder may be a sliver from his head.

A crusade has been started to abolish the use of horses in warfare—killing of horses being regarded as cruel.

After a conference at Hyde Park it is announced that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Farley are in complete agreement—nor are seeming differences between Edgar Bergen and Charley McCarthy ever taken seriously.

Advises Middle Course.

THOSE who express sympathy with the "objectives" of President Roosevelt, but who question the practicability of his methods, will be interested in the article appearing in the adjoining column, written by D. Worth Clark, Democratic representative from Idaho, who defeated "100 per cent New Dealer" Senator James P. Pope, for renomination in the recent Idaho primaries.

In this article Mr. Clark sets forth the age-old conflict between ultra-conservatism and impractical idealism and points out that a sane middle course, with constant progress as an objective, should be steered by peoples and governments.

It was remarked by President Roosevelt, when he learned of the result of the primaries in South Carolina, "It is often true that it takes a long, long time to bring the past up to the present."

Equally true would be the statement that it takes a long time to bring the present up to the future, and that sound leadership lies in a forward-looking program in which practicality tinctures idealism.

Read the article by Congressman Clark. It will give you something to think about.

Plan to Absorb Wheat Surplus.

LONG experience in the flour milling business, and earnest study of farm problems through many years, lie back of the suggestion which Thomas J. Hanley, Mansfield mill operator, offers in a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace as a possible way out of difficulties arising from the present wheat surplus in the United States, with consequent low prices to farmers.

Whereas a bushel of wheat weighing 60 pounds now produces 40 pounds of flour, with around 20 pounds of bran and middlings for use as stock feed, Mr. Hanley proposes that millers be required to extract not more than 21 pounds of flour from each bushel of wheat and that the 19 pounds of secondary product thus gained be included in the portion used for feeding livestock and poultry, making it possible for farmers to add to the nation's meat supply, and, as Mr Hanley states it, "enable the poor people of the nation to buy meat at a lower figure."

In his letter to Secretary Wallace, Mr. Hanley explained that such a plan would reduce the total of flour to the estimated needs for American consumption and would provide a means of disposing of an apparent surplus without exportation or subsidies.

Many will recall that, twenty years ago, during the World war, restrictions imposed by government required that much more than the customary 40 pounds of flour be extracted from each bushel of wheat, resulting in the dark-colored "whole wheat" flour common to that time.

While few are familiar with the technicalities of milling it may be assumed that Mr. Hanley is well informed on this subject and has knowledge that no essentials of nourishment would be removed by reduction to 21 pounds of flour from each bushel of wheat milled—that in fact the percentage of nutriment might be increased by concentrating the starch and gluten of the endosperm of a bushel of wheat into 21 pounds of flour instead of distributing it through 40 pounds.

In any event, the idea seems worthy of consideration by Mr. Wallace and his associates in the department of agriculture.

Causes of Business Failures.

WRITING in the Saturday Evening Post, Albert W. Atwood discusses the appalling mortality rate in the field of retail business. Stores are started, run for a short time, and fail—and their places are immediately taken by other stores that repeat the cycle.

This has resulted in a flood of legislation designed to lessen the retail death rate But, as Mr. Atwood observes, "The long, cold stark record of business experience is that brains, git-up-and-git and efficiency cannot be implanted by law . . Failure, insolvency and bankruptcy are not primarily to be done away with by legislation."

The basic reason for most of the thousands of retail failures can be expressed in a word—incompetence. Mr. Atwood states that a careful survey made of the stores in one trade in a western state showed that half of their proprietors went into business, not because they were experienced and fitted for it, but simply because they were out of work and starting a store on a shoestring seemed the easiest thing to do.

A department of commerce survey in a typical large eastern city showed that 61 per cent of retail failures were of stores whose owners had no previous managerial experience and little or no business knowledge.

So long as inexperienced people insist on going blindly into retail business, the failure rate will remain excessively high—and nothing can be done about it.

Lakes Lost and Found.

LOST LAKE in Yellowstone park, which has not been seen since 1921, remains hidden from mortal view. It is on the maps, and old-timers verify its existence, but no one can find it. The other day, however, naturalists investigating bird population found a new lake, never before charted. This one is about a mile long, larger than the lost one and in a different location.

Anywhere else, the geographic abilities of losers and finders might be under suspicion. But anyone who has ever seen the wonders of that fairyland called Yellowstone park knows anything can happen there.

Reports of large gold discoveries in various parts of the world are not especially exciting any more—the supply being so much greater than the demand.

Watching Trends

(Pinch-hitting for Preston Grover today, D. Worth Clark, "middle-of-the-road" Democratic representative who defeated "100 per cent New Dealer" Senator James P. Pope in the Idaho senatorial primaries, sets forth his views.)

By D. WORTH CLARK

WASHINGTON—Ever since the world began, society has been torn between the forces of the standpat reactionary on one hand and the visionary theorist on the other. Both are equally bad. Either if given full rein will lead any country into ruin. Your reactionary will try nothing if it is new. Your visionary will try nothing unless it is new.

The successful nations of the world such as England have endured for centuries because they have been able to steer a middle course. The English have an apt phrase for it, "muddling through."

It seems to me that America can and will muddle through. We must not reject the wisdom and admonitions of those who built this nation merely because this wisdom and advice come to us out of the past. There are some principles that grow even more valid with age.

For Old and New.

ON THE other hand, in this high-speed mechanized era economic and social conditions change with kaleidoscopic rapidity, and it becomes necessary to constantly devise new methods to meet new problems. If we can utilize the new things without abandoning what is good in the old we can continue to make America great Tyranny in any form is a devastating thing, whether it be the tyranny of those who wield too much economic power or the tyranny of an autocratic government. We must always take care that in our efforts to avoid one form of tyranny we do not drift into another.

After the World war, Europe found her economic conditions intolerable. She used desperate methods to remedy them but in so doing ended up in fascism and communism; and I think her last state is worse than her first. It occurs to me that the tyranny of some economic overlords can be destroyed without abandoning our American system of government.

Optimist on U S.

I AM extremely anxious to see the traditional independence of the three branches of our government preserved. Party leadership and party responsibility are of course desirable. They should not, however, be carried to the point of destroying the autonomy of either the executive, the congress or the judiciary. Each of these agencies has its proper functions to perform and, although there should be the fullest co-operation among them, there should be no subservience. The strength of our democracy lies in this.

As far as the future of America is concerned I am an optimist, or, perhaps I should say, I am an optimistic realist. This nation was built on optimism and enthusiasm but it was not built unheedingly. Optimism must be tempered with realism; enthusiasm, with common sense; and if this is done democracy will work.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, Sept. 2, 1918.

Labor day was observed with parade and speaking program at Central park. "Win the War" was predominating spirit of the day.

Frank Secrist, 40, of Butler, was killed and four men injured in automobile accident on Olivesburg road.

Charles Wingert was called to Princeton, Ill., by the death of his mother.

Capt T Y McCray was home from Camp Sherman on short leave.

Mr and Mrs Thomas M. Bell went to Baltimore to attend convention of Spanish War veterans.

Three Mansfield boys who started out to "tour the world" ran out of money and were picked up by Cleveland police.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Sept. 2, 1933.

Members of German singing societies from Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania and Michigan held district picnic of Arbeiten Saengerbund at Bauer's farm, near city.

D R Buell, Ruth avenue, left for Atlantic City, as Ohio delegate-at-large to convention of National Association of Letter Carriers.

Miss Elizabeth Kutschall became bride of Joseph Heilman in parsonage of St Peter's church

Dr and Mrs R C Padgett left for Watson N Y to visit their son R C Padgett jr

Ralph C Lutz was nominated for mayor by Lexington Democrats in caucus

THE WATCHED POT

The Human Side of the News

—By EDWIN C. HILL

THERE is easy, Addisonian detachment in Alfred M. Landon's series of articles on his "impressions of his losing fight." He is not intemperate, he is not violently opinionated, he offers no cure-all and, above all, he is not ill-natured. He is not sore. All this, I believe, is unique in the annals of big-league politics in America.

Blaine, in his "Twenty Years in Congress," achieved something of the same friendly side-line appraisal of his friends and foes, but he was a journeyman politician, which Landon decidedly is not, and therefore, I think the latter is a stand-out as any easy-going humanist in our political history. And possibly that is why he wasn't elected.

When I was reading one of those Landon articles the other day, I wondered why it brought back a dim memory of a football match in a London suburb. It took me a long time to pick up the thread of association, but when I found it the connection was clear enough. The match was between two school teams. I observed that during momentary breathing spells the lads of one team put their hands in their pockets. Pockets in football pants seemed an odd idea. I noticed the other side didn't have them. The pocketed team, incidentally winning, had a little cockney sideline coach. I asked him about the pockets.

"It's like this guv'nor," he said. "A lad has to ease up his mind a bit as well as his body whenever he can. And you know 'ow it is about pockets. When you've 'ad a bit of 'ard goin' and you knock off you're apt to drop into a slouch and put your 'ands in your pockets. Doing that seems to say to your mind that everything is all right and you don't 'ave the wind up your back the way you do when you're all screwed up tight. So, the first thing I do whenever I take over a team is to 'ave pockets sewed in their pants and make 'em use 'em. You'd be surprised 'ow it works."

Similarly relaxed is Mr. Landon between scrimmages and, therefore, it seems to me, more steadily effective, even as a private citizen, which he says he will continue to be and certainly uniquely qualified to sift the wheat from the chaff of defeat—something which only a man free from tension is capable of doing.

THE question of whether we learn more from our defeats than our successes is still wide open. There are many pious aphorisms on the side of the discipline and tuition of failure. There is a contrary maxim that "nothing succeeds like success." Nietzsche wrote that "strong men digest their sins." For more of us it would seem much harder and possibly much more important to digest our failures, our humiliations, our defeats. That was one reason why Mr Landon's articles appealed to me as somewhat of an extraordinary phenomenon of political reminiscence.

As to the above subject for debate in the little red school house I think most of us do learn from success. There is always a new assurance and mastery in putting something over. We like to review and analyze and gloat over our successes, and perhaps learn something from them. But we hastily shove our failures away down into the deep crypt of the unconscious and they creep out only in wakeful night hours when ghosts walk, and thus, shunning these experiences we fail to learn.

But, and this is a most important qualification, it is the unusual man, and not "most of us," who does learn from failure. Abraham Lincoln was that kind of man. He had no aversion, no shrinking from his defeats, and he gleaned wisdom from facing them. He faced, too, the failures and defeats of all humanity and, like Euripedes, was saddened by "the giant agony of the world." And, as this writer happens to know, Charlie Chaplin, attributed much of his genuine artistic success and intellectual fulfillment to having studied his failures and having learned the deep meaning of real humility. But these are extraordinary men.

ANATOLE FRANCE wrote, beautifully and poetically, almost all that can be said on this debate, in the last chapter of "The Revolt of the Angels." Lucifer and his committee of revolutionists had come up to earth, had taken human form and were preparing a counter-revolution against the "old Demiurge." On the eve of their attack, Lucifer had a dream in which the battle started and his side won. He was enthroned and the Demiurge pitched into hell. Ages passed in the twinkling of an eye. Lucifer looked over the ramparts and saw that the dethroned Demiurge had become a gentle, kindly spirit, assuaging misery and lifting the fallen.

He knew that Lucifer, enthroned, becomes the Demiurge, delighted with the adultation of his little yes-man, with the psaltery and harp, and the Demiurge, dethroned, becomes wise, kind and humble. He saw that the unusual man learns from failure. He woke up and the committee was waiting to start the attack. The book is not at hand, but Lucifer said something like this:

"The revolution is off. Our only important revolution is to conquer the demons of ignorance and fear in our own souls."

For a sharper point on the argument, I should say wise men learn from failure. Mr. Landon would seem to qualify.

Health Advice

Vaccinate Against Smallpox.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE POINTED out yesterday the fundamental necessity of diphtheria immunization for every child entering school for the first time. Parents may neglect this in infancy, or feel that the child is too young to have these treatments, but when the school age comes along, all such procrastinations should come to an end.

What other immunizations should be made at this period? Well, it hardly seems that it should be necessary to speak of smallpox vaccination again, but apparently it is. We have been lulled to security about smallpox because the practice of vaccination almost drove it, like diphtheria, from the modern world, and parents are not as strict about having vaccination done as they were in my day.

But contagious diseases sleep; they do not die. Smallpox still exists around and about. Every once in a while little epidemics break out here and there. And it is estimated today that the numerical ratio of the unvaccinated population would result in a very serious situation if an epidemic of smallpox were to start in the United States

Such a possibility is by no means remote. In an editorial in the Journal of the American Medical association it is pointed out that 1937 witnessed another rise in the incidence of the disease here. In 1936 there were 7,011 cases reported. In 1937 there were 11,806.

From such a menace your children should be protected by vaccination

Done Every Seven Years.

Incidentally, re-vaccination should be done every seven years for about three times—that is to say the first vaccination should be made during the first year then re-vaccination at seven, 14 and 21 years After that immunity is supposed to be complete.

Immunity to diphtheria last a long time after toxoid administration We have not been giving it long enough to know just how long, but six or seven years at least The earlier in life it is given, the longer the immunity lasts, another argument for early administration.

One other disease for which we have efficient immunization is typhoid fever, and while there is not the danger of contracting this in school so much because it is not spread by contact, still it seems to me since we face the question of immunization now, it is just as well to think of anti-typhoid vaccination.

Of course, all these immunizations should not be given close together. This little sermon of mine is really meant for the parents of children who will be going to school next year or year after next. With that much time in reserve, all three of these prophylactic measures can be given without any crowding for time.

A Farmer's Diary

Their Life Work.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

TWENTY years ago I lived near a family of eight children, five boys and three girls. The oldest boy was a tall, rugged youth of eighteen, the youngest a baby of ten months. Often I ate with them at their large, long, country table. The food was simple, wholesome, and abundant. The mother was a splendid cook, and very thrifty. She baked eight big round loaves of bread twice every week. Pies and cakes were not so numerous. The girls of high school age and younger, shared the tasks

It was a Christian home. Grace was offered at every meal, and a fervent family worship before bedtime. I have often knelt beside my chair, as a member of the circle. Frequently one of the children would take a leading part.

The father wore a long, dark, flowing beard. I liked to visit there, for they seemed interested in each other, and in me. They knew such old fashioned ideals as truth and honesty, a sense of fairness and justice, a spirit of thrift. Their buoyancy was proverbial.

Today I visited that home again Time had wrought change. The patriarchal board was snowy white. Deep kindly wrinkles showed about the eyes and mouth. The mother was stooped and walked with difficulty. Her hands were gnarled with rheumatism.

"D you know me?" I asked.

"Yes," they both answered. "Twenty years ago, or more, you were at our home a lot . . . certainly it's the same old table, but when you were here, John had had to make four extra boards. They're standing dusty in the pantry now . . the children are all married except Dave. Jim's a teacher in college; Earnest farms; Dan's an engineer; Dale's a missionary in Africa . . . the other two are preachers in our church . . . we've got four grandchildren We worry about bein' so far apart, sometimes but it's the way life moves along . . . and we're proud of all of 'em."

Timely Editorial

Science Stumbles.

Science has run up another blind alley at the poultry department of Cornell university.

Jugglers of genes at that seat of learning have succeeded in breeding a type of chicken without feathers. But, having bred them, it was discovered that the cost of heating henhouses to prevent nudity from running on into pneumonia far exceeded the cost of removing the pinfeathers from normal fowl.

It is all very baffling, and reminds one that we have bred a race of women who, inured to semi-nudity in most circumstances, nevertheless want fur coats for winter.

The path of human progress is inadequately marked with detour signs.—Detroit News.

Listen, World!

Should Masculine Ego Be Protected?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THEY'D dropped in on their home from various offices—half a dozen young working wives, smartly groomed, femininely fragrant despite their sleek efficiency. Slender heels clicking . . . tinted nails twinkling . . . laughing faces violet-veiled in cigarette smoke, they perched lightly on the edges of desks and tables, en route from dictaphones to dinner tables.

Eight hours of pounding work lay behind them. More hours of domestic routine lay before them . . . hours during which they must still maintain the balanced control and provocative charm which had won their two-fold prestige in marriage and business. Their husbands might relax, sprawl in slippered ease, bellow at the children or peeve about the cook, if by chance such a luxury existed. But there could be no such blessed let-down for their working mates.

A Tired Business Man was one thing . . . but a Tired Business Woman was an entirely different matter! Lovely eyes might ache with strain . . . slender back be cramped with pain . . . weary brain be gummed into a muddle. But once out of the office, these 20th century mothers and wives must resume their ancient duties in the home. Direct, or, in most cases, cook the dinner. Hush the baby. Bandage Junior's skinned knee. Count the laundry. Preside over a bridge table. But, above all else, "keep everything nice for Dad and protect his feeling . . . For you know how sensitive husbands are about working wives. You just can't let a man remember that you have a job, too!"

Kidding, wise-cracking or frankly resentful, they discussed their predicament . . . the predicament of every modern working woman caught in this strange mishmash of changing relationships.

Wasn't it absurd for men to act like that? . . . Of course it was; but everyone knew that men were just little boys . . . vain, pouty little boys.

But suppose one stopped treating them as little boys? (This from a tip-nosed red head, with the thud of a rebellious heel.) Wasn't it time women stopped coddling men? She, for one, was sick of it! Pussyfooting around for fear something would hurt Fred's pride. How about HER pride? Didn't a woman have feelings too? Couldn't a woman boast a little bit about HER record, once in a while, without her Wonderful Hero going off in a fit o' pouts?

And the men who haven't jobs were the worst! (This from a tall, tweeded young creature, slouching against the files, hands deep in mannish pockets, green eyes smouldering.) The others were just spoiled brats, but those unemployed husbands with working wives, they were absolutely vicious! Male Martyrs . . . wallowing in self-pity! Drying the dishes with that crucified look! Instead of being decently grateful, they made a woman actually apologize for paying the bills! Rotten sportsmanship, that's what it was!

Picking up bags, powdering noses, they started to go when the woman with the tired eyes spoke for the first time. Rotten sportsmanship? Yes, that was right . . . but perhaps the men had their side, too. It had all come so suddenly, this business of wives working. And perhaps men weren't really as conceited or self confident as they seemed. Mightn't it be a bluff? A bluff to cover up a man's own fear . . . fear of losing his place with men . . . or, even worse, his place with the one woman whose respect he needed most to keep him from taking the count?

So there it ended—on a question. Tired Working Wives going home to Tired Working Husbands . . . both of them hurt . . . both of them suspicious—and horribly lonely—

WHAT'S THE ANSWER? WHO'S WRONG? YOU TELL.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—CONGRATULATIONS: to TWA for those little communications the pilots give out on all ships. These aren't letters of the sort that say, "Dear Joe, that's a nice tie you're wearing and I hope you enjoy the chicken dinner."

But they're something you remember and tell your friends about. I have several of them folded in my pocket that Miss Havely, the stewardess, gave me on a recent flight to St. Louis. The pilot makes them out and the hostess hands them around to the passengers. And they're called "Up to the minute flight information." Here's what one of them says:

"Our position at 5:58 p. m. was Sunbury, Pa. Tailwind 17 miles per our. Ground speed 187 miles per hour. Altitude above sea level 8,000 ft. Altitude above ground 7,550 ft. We arrive in Pittsburgh at approximately 6:53 p. m. Remarks: built on the site of Ft. Augusta which was an outpost during the French and Indian war. Edison developed the commercial electrical lighting system at Sunbury. Arrive over Bellefonte at 6:14 p. m. Signed, Alton N. Parker, Captain."

You get one of these every hour or so and not only does it quicken interest in the country you're passing over—it makes for conversation and lends color to a trip that is fun anyway.

ANOTHER swell idea is Yermi Stern's house of Santa Claus. Imagine looking through the front door of a model home, about three and a half feet long and seeing a live Santa Claus, maybe 10 inches high, who is a real man, who talks to you, makes toys, runs electric trains, asks questions, tosses a ball around, and does anything that you can do. Make no mistake about it, the man is alive. He is real. He eats meat and bread and potatoes the same as you. How is it done? What is it?

Not by mirrors. It's by special lense. One lense brings the scene into the room and another reduces. Santo, of course, is in another room going through all the motions, and the "sight" of him is conveyed into the doll-sized house for you to see. There is a telephone in the room and one in front of you, so that you may speak to him and ask questions.

This is Yermi's idea for a display at Christmas time. He hopes to have a thousand of them around the country by Thanksgiving. They can't be purchased—he only rents them, and they go to one store exclusively in each city. The stores may keep them from Thanksgiving to New Year's. It certainly seems odd to talk with a man only 10 inches high.

TODAY was a good one for autograph hunters. Had you poked your head into Sardi's you would have seen: two playwrights, Elmer Rice and Robert Sherwood, lunching at a side table nearby; Sir Cedric Hardwicke, the actor, in the immediate vicinity, and next to him Gloria Swanson with some people I did not recognize.

Dick Maguire of Honolulu and Mrs. Maguire have been recent visitors to New York. Maguire is chief announcer for KGU and while he was here he had the pleasure of participating in a two way broadcast, N. Y.-to-Honolulu-and-back-again. The Maguires were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur (Wall street) Parmelee.

CHAPTER 32

NEXT MORNING the first thing Laurie saw when she got out of bed was the note which she had not seen the night previously. It was lying unopened on the floor. Noel was sleeping soundly and Laurie hated to waken her, but she knew the contents of the note would make her happier than she had been for days.

So Laurie gave Noel a gentle shake. "Wake up, honey, wake up," she explained.

Noel opened her eyes. "Where's the fire?" she asked sleepily.

"It's a letter from Dr. Paige," Laurie said happily. "I put it on your pillow last night so you would be sure to see it. But you must have knocked it off when you climbed into bed."

Noel sat up, stretching out her white arms. "Give it to me! Give it to me!" she begged.

Laurie had thought she might tease her a little before handing the note to her, but the look on Noel's face made her change her mind.

Noel opened the envelope with fingers that trembled. Inside were two of Julian's prescription blanks on which he had written:

"Dear Noel: How about another picnic tomorrow—same place, same hour? I need a bit of holiday, but more than that, I need a glimpse of you. Always thinking of myself, aren't I? Selfish man. Let me know by Laurie. Yours, Julian."

For a long moment, Noel just sat there, holding Junian's note in her fingers. She knew Laurie was looking at her, so she said in a voice that shook a little from happiness, "Am I a fool to—care so much."

Laurie was looking at her with an indulgent smile. "Women are made like that. They can't help themselves. That's why," she stopped a moment then went on a little hesitantly, "I suppose lots of them do dishonest things to get the man they want."

"I didn't know you were such a philosopher," Noel said.

"Might as well be," Laurie answered.

Noel looked down at the note she still held in her hand. Then she looked up again at Laurie. "Aren't you ever, ever going to see Jimmy again?"

"We had a date last night after I got off from work," Laurie said, a little hard light coming into her eyes. "But his mother found it out, and promptly had a heart attack. Poor Jimmy! He phoned me he couldn't come."

"Do you suppose she really did have an attack?" Noel asked.

"No. I think it was a phony one," Laurie said decidedly.

"It's hard to believe she'd do that, that any woman would," Noel said feelingly.

"It's harder on Jimmy than it is on me," Laurie said after a pause. "Sometimes he thinks his mother is faking, and sometimes he just can't believe it. But of course if he left her, and she was really very ill, and—and anything happened, well, you can see how dreadful it would be for him."

"Yes, I can see," Noel murmured. She could not help believing herself that Jimmy's mother was pretending and was just a completely selfish person. But Noel felt that she, herself, had no right to pass judgment on Jimmy's mother. In a way Noel knew she had been just as selfish. Not that she knowingly had stood in the way of the happiness of other people. But at least she had never given a thought to their troubles, or of any way she might help them. She had lived for herself alone, with no idea in the world except how she might manage to keep from being bored.

It seemed ironic that now, since Noel was in a position to do nothing about it, she could see so many, many places where she could help. Just merely by the slightest exertion on her part—that of signing a few checks. Maida for instance, so gentle and timid and so worn out with the unequal struggle, and Joey, who could be of so much help, if only he had a bicycle. And poor Jimmy, so torn between the two women who loved him, one selfishly, and the other unselfishly, as a woman loves the man she wants to work with and stand by his side as his wife.

Laurie was ready to go to work. "Of course, I'll tell Doctor Paige you couldn't think of meeting him," she teased.

"Sure—tell him I wouldn't dream of coming," Noel humored her happily.

"I'll tell him that you'll be there with bells on and banners in your hair." Laurie said as she went out, waving Noel a laughing goodby.

A few minutes later Noel jumped up. She fixed herself a little breakfast, delighted that the coffee was drinkable and the toast not too soggy. She wasn't much in position this morning to realize what she ate. Anything would taste like food for the gods, she was so happy.

Just because Julian had written a note saying that he wanted to see her, her silly heart had started dreaming again.

She ran to the window to see what kind of a day it was going to be, and saw that the sun was already coming up. She could see it behind the tall elm trees. It was going to be a glorious day.

Then she started dressing. First, her one good pair of chiffon stockings. She was glad she had rinsed them out yesterday. She inspected them carefully for the least sign of a run, having learned from Laurie that that was the best way to keep things in condition, to inspect them carefully every day for the tiniest suspicion of a break in the silk. Noel hadn't even known before she and Laurie had roomed together that runs could be mended in silk hose. Or that you could take your shoes to a cobbler and have the heels built up until they looked like new.

She had had the oxfords fixed at a cobbler's, and now with a bit of polish they'd look quite presentable. She wanted to look as nice as possible for Julian. It was quite true he hadn't noticed very much the kind of clothes she had been wearing since she had started on her adventure. Or if he had, he hadn't said anything about it. She knew, however, he had disapproved very much of the gold brocade gown she had been forced to wear at the Peacock.

At last Noel was dressed, fully an hour too early. The minutes just seemed to drag by. She sat down in the hard rocker to wait, determined not to start for the De Luxe until almost 10.

She heard the phone ring. Then Mrs. Blascom's dragging step, movin toward her room. Someone wanted her. Noel's heart thudded downward. Was it Julian saying he couldn't meet her today?

When she took the receiver, she heard Chris' blithe voice! "Hello, angel! Grand day—how about lunch and another drive in the country? We might get lost again—lots of fun getting lost, you know."

She said, "Oh, Chris, I'm so sorry not today."

"I see. You're dated up," Chris voice was complacent. "Some other time then," he said, and there was the click of the receiver.

* * *

It was still half an hour before 10. But Noel started for the De Luxe. She walked slowly along, enjoying the mild sunshine, and the Sunday calm which lay upon the city. It was only now and then that a car passed, moving leisurely. So different from week days with the traffic darting in every direction, and even the very air seemingly filled with a nervous bustle.

Noel thought it wonderful to have time to enjoy the sunshine and the sleepy quiet of Sunday morning.

At the DeLuxe the same atmosphere of leisure prevailed. A few people were still scattered around the tables, eating slowly and reading the Sunday papers.

Noel sat down near the big plate glass window where she could see the Medical Arts building. She would see Julian the minute he came out of the revolving doors. It was 10 now—in a few minutes he would be here! But the clock moved on to 10:30 and then 11 and Julian did not come.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

A timely and interesting book is "Children of the Emek" by Libbie L. Braverman.

Tamar and David Ben Ami were nine-year-old twins. They were born in America but when they were three years old they went, with their parents, to the Jewish colony of Nahal in Palestine. The story gives a clear picture of life in this workers' settlement. The land was bought by the Jewish National fund and many colonies have been founded in the fertile valley of the Emek. At the back of the book is an alphabetical list of all the Hebrew words used in the story, with their correct pronunciation and meaning.

DEVOUR RATTLERS

CARSON CITY, Nev. — (U.P.) — According to Morley Murphy, Elko county rancher, the crickets which are eating up entire crops are conferring at least one blessing on the country as they pass along. He saw them eat at least three rattlesnakes which happened to be in their path.

FARM PURCHASE LOANS READY

MT. GILEAD—Morrow county farm laborers may now make application for a loan to purchase a farm, according to an announcement made today by Ralph Lichti, supervisor for the Farm Security administration.

These loans will bear three per cent interest and may be made for a period up to 40 years. They are available only in seven counties of the state. All applications must be approved by the county committee before the loans are granted.

The original deadline for filing is Sept. 10. Loans will be made before spring.

FATE BATTERS BUT VETERAN'S CHIN STAYS UP

Disabled Canadian War Hero Loses Eight of Family and 14 Homes.

(By United Press)

WEST CHESTER, Pa.—Misfortune and bad luck have dogged the trail of Sergt. J. A. Foster of the 13th Black Watch, 48th Highlanders, Canadian Army, for many years but the tougher the breaks the harder he fought back.

Stranded here with his wife and two children while en route from Miami, Fla., to Hamilton, Ontario, in a crude pushcart, Foster told the story of his life, a story of ill-luck, personal injury and financial destitution.

He said that during his life he built 14 homes and lost them all. His five daughters, mother and two sisters were killed in a hurricane. He is disabled from World war wounds and is "dead broke."

"To Start Over Again."

"But I'm not discouraged," he said. "I'm not going up. I'm going to start all over again."

Foster, who is 66, is taking his wife and two children, Beatrice, 11, and Willie, 10, to his native Canada to collect a war pension. The family's mode of transportation is a home-made cart which is propelled by hand.

"We've been on the road for more than 100 days," Foster revealed while here. "We've crossed 18 mountains, weathered all sorts of storms, and never asked for help."

He keeps a small tin can fastened on the side of his cart with a sign "Donations." Occasionally a stranger drops a coin in the slot.

"One day," Foster said, "a Scotchman named McTiddler came along and looked us over. By a coincidence it happened that he served with the Canadian forces in the World war, in the same company of Highlanders that I did. We had a long talk together and he gave me a dollar.

Even Faces Ridicule.

"Some people make fun of us. But I do not let that bother me. I wonder how many of them would have the spunk to do what I am doing and keep on after what I've been through."

Five of his homes were destroyed successively by flood, hurricane and fire. In 1926, his Moorhaven, Fla., home was devastated by a hurricane which killed his mother, daughters and sisters. His last home was destroyed at Key Largo, Fla., in 1935.

"There's a silver plate under my scalp where I was wounded that makes my head throb when I lie down to sleep at night," Foster said.

"My teeth hurt sometimes—the ones that were driven up into my gums when I was hit in the mouth by shrapnel.

"But outside of that, I'm all right."

Spare hours are the shortest in a busy man's day.

OHIO HELPS SUPPLY 'CUSTOMERS' FOR KENTUCKY'S GRETNA GREENS

(By Associated Press)

CATLETTSBURG, Ky. — Two picturesque little northeast Kentucky towns along the Ohio river are fast becoming popular Gretna Greens for the couples of neighboring states.

Since July 1, a check showed today, more than 500 marriage licenses have been issued at Catlettsburg, county seat of Boyd county, and Greenup, county seat of adjoining Greenup county.

Virtually all the couples married in the town where they obtain licenses.

Ohio and West Virginia, the survey revealed, supplied a majority of the "customers," but numerous applicants gave as their addresses towns in Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Pennsylvania, North Carolina and Virginia. Even from far away New York—far from the standpoint of Gretna Greens—came elopers.

Less than 50 of the licenses issued in the two towns went to Kentucky couples. Ohio law requires couples obtaining a license to wait five days before the wedding ceremony. West Virginia also has a "waiting" period.

Greenup was most popular with Ohioans while Catlettsburg was the chief rendezvous for the West Virginians.

Of the approximately 230 licenses applied for at Greenup during the past month and a half, 180 were sought by couples from across the river in Ohio. At Catlettsburg, 185 of the approximately 300 licenses were issued to Virginia couples.

Ministers and others who perform marriages in both towns have been quick to hitch their wagon's to Cupid's arrow.

The flood of marriage-bent couples to these river towns, still recovering financially from the disastrous 1937 Ohio river flood, is a welcome one. It has helped business, merchants assert.

SNAPS BULL'S NECK

BEALIBA, Australia — (U.P.) — When charged by a bull, J. E. Matthews, local butcher, seized it by the horns and allowed his entire weight to be carried by the bull's head until its neck was broken.

MILK PROBLEM

U. S. Reports Dairy Surplus Reaches 9-Year High.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The department of agriculture has reported that milk production has reached the highest point in nine years and that the problem of dairy surpluses has become serious.

Milk production on Aug. 1 was 4 per cent above Aug. 1, 1937, and was the highest since 1929, the department said. Storage holdings of dairy products were reported 5 per cent larger than in June, 1937, and 4 per cent larger than ever before reported for that month.

"Even though total milk production has been high, consumption of milk and cream in the principal fluid milk markets in recent months has been less than a year ago," the report said.

'GATOR IN WRONG PLACE

SEABROOK, N. H. — (U.P.) — Maybe this alligator was trying to emulate Douglas Corrigan's wrong-way flight.

Anyhow, Russell Parker found the 'gator sunning itself near a lobster trap washed ashore during a recent storm. The captive is being exhibited in a tub of fresh water.

SOCIETY ELECTS

BUTLER—Mrs. Alma Swendal was re-elected president of the Butler Methodist Ladies Aid society at a meeting of the organization held in the church parlors recently.

Other officers named include Mrs. Ethel Cover, vice president; Mrs. Jennie Innes, secretary, and Mrs. Mabel Hess treasurer.

Hostesses at the meeting, which was attended by about 35 ladies of the church, were Mrs. A. W. Young, Mrs. Ethel Cover and Mrs. Vera Roberts.

WANT EXCLUSIVE RIGHTS

AHMEDABA — (U.P.) — Indian women, at a meeting here, demanded a province that they could govern exclusively. To justify their demands, speakers said that, in contrast with men, there was no disunion among women, no jealousy, and no greed for power.

"If women's power was only organized and mobilized it would transform the world," said one woman delegate.

NEW BUILDING HITS $108,000 DURING AUGUST

Valuation of Construction Work $41,000 Above July; Includes 14 Homes.

Permits for the construction of 14 new residences bolstered August building in Mansfield to $108,865, or $41,110 ahead of July, city hall records showed today. The residence permits in estimated value totaled $74,200.

Added to this in new construction work was the erection of 10 garages at a cost of $1,135. Alterations and additions during the month added another $33 530

22 Homes in August, 1937.

In August of a year ago, new residences totaled 22 with a value of $103,500, while there were 26 new garages built, valued at $3,425, and alterations and repairs at $6,800.

Building in July of this year totaled $67,755. Of this $60 040 represented new building in garages and residences, and $7,715 was for alterations and repairs

Construction work for the first seven months of 1938 is running behind that for a year ago, according to records

Permits issued from January to July, inclusive, during 1937, totaled $730 093 against $587 660 for the first seven months of this year.

Driver Licenses Due, When They'll Arrive's Question

According to law, 1939 drivers' licenses were scheduled to go on sale yesterday—but that's as far as it went.

Officials of the Richland County Automobile club where the licenses are distributed, said they hadn't heard from the state department of motor vehicles and didn't know when the certificates would be available

The law covering drivers' licenses says they must be placed on sale 30 days before the date they go into effect Oct 1 However, in the two previous years the license law has been in effect, the sale never started before Sept 10, auto club officials pointed out

CREATES HOME PLANNING UNIT

Westinghouse Announces New Department; I. W. Clark Appointed Manager.

Creation of a new home planning department at the Mansfield works of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company was announced today by R. E. Imhoff, sales manager of the merchandising division.

Simultaneously he announced the appointment of I. W. Clark, formerly manager of the company's kitchen planning section, as head of the new department.

Imhoff pointed out that an optimistic future for business in general and for electrical appliances and new residential building in particular prompted the creation of the new home planning department.

"The steadily growing new home market has accumulated a backlog that must be relieved within the next few years," Imhoff said. "Authorities estimate that some 600,000 housing units are needed each year in this country, and added to this figure is the accumulated shortage of dwelling units indicating a total potential demand approximating 8,000,000 dwelling units in this country in the next 10 years."

Clark will combine with his new duties the direction of the company's kitchen and laundry planning activities and will serve as a consultant to architects and building and contracting organizations. He will also be responsible for the development and direction of the home economics program of the company.

SHOW DECLINE

August Bank Clearings Drop $160,000 Under July.

Showing a slight decline from the July figues, Mansfield bank clearings for August totaled $6,-032,154 as against $6,196,108 in the preceding month, H. A. McElhaney, secretary of the Clearing House association, said today.

The August clearings, however, were approximately $1,700,000 under figures for the same month last year

Total clearings so far this year for the city's four banks are $48,-603,376 as compared with $70,-930,367 for the same period of 1937, one of the best year's in the city's history.

The decline began last November and clearings have dropped off almost monthly since then.

U. S. Acts to Strengthen Two National Defense Links

NEW ATLANTIC COAST FLEET TO BE SET UP

President Also Calls for New Plan to Assure Industrial Cities of Electric Power.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt put into motion today two plans for strengthening national defense forces on land and sea.

The moves were made a few hours after the president had conferred with Secretary of State Cordell Hull over the latest developments in the European crisis.

The navy department announced that it is forming immediately a "temporary" squadron of the U. S. fleet for duty on the Atlantic coast. The new squadron will consist of seven of the navy's newest cruisers and seven destroyers. Its formation, scheduled for Sept. 6, will mark the first time in several years that the U. S. Navy has regularly maintained a squadron of warships on this coast.

Mobolize Industrial Power.

Simultaneously, Mr Roosevelt asked a special committee, headed by Assistant Secretary of War Louis J. Johnson, to devise a plan within 60 days for industrial mobilization of electric power to link 15 of the strategic manufacturing cities which are considered key points in war industries.

Johnson said that the purpose of the plan was to "make America so strong that no foreign nation will bother us."

The two moves were announced separately, and no mention was made in either announcement of the European crisis. The timing of the announcements and their nature left little doubt, however, that they at least were indirectly connected with the situation in Europe

The formation of the Atlantic squadron was considered especially significant. This marks the first large-scale result, in terms of sea power, of the huge naval construction program begun by the Roosevelt administration. Heretofore, new warships have taken their places, singly, with the U. S. fleet as they were commissioned and after completing their trial runs.

In this instance, however, seven new, heavy cruisers are making their advent simultaneously, and they are being stationed in an area where their presence may well weigh in the decisions for peace or war which European statesmen now are considering.

Cannons Boom to Mark Pittsburgh Steel Anniversary

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Cannon boomed, church bells rang and factory whistles blew today in a deafening salute to the opening of a 22-day anniversary of this steel capital's 150th anniversary.

An historical parade — marred somewhat by labor difficulties unknown to those pioneers who cleared the wilderness at the confluence of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers—and a welcome to aviator Douglas Corrigan opened the sesqui-centennial program.

Union carpenters working on "welcome" arches in the flag-festooned golden triangle dropped their tools, declaring pattern makers instead of carpenters had been employed to erect them.

Union leaders said union bands would refuse to march under the arches in the parade.

SCRIBES GUESTS AS FAIR CLOSES

75,000 Attend Event on Governor's Day to Set Record.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—More than 500 newspapermen were guests of honor at the Ohio State fair today as the big exhibit swung into the final stages.

The week's attendance record of 75,000 set yesterday when Governor Davey was the guest of honor was expected to fall before the final event tonight.

Today's program includes the finals in all events. First is the sheep-shearing contest in which the winners of the eliminations will meet to decide who can clip the most wool in a given length of time.

Other events include the final judging, a luncheon for the newspapermen under a huge tent, the trotting races, the milk-maid finals and lastly, the big night of the horse show.

Work Half Done, TVA Committee Recesses

Up and Down THE STREET

A persistent contender in the annual Ohio Seniors' golf tournament which comes to a close today at the Westbrook Country club, C. H. Foster of Cleveland, plays under a handicap which would discourage less courageous golfers. Foster's right knee was shattered by a gunshot while hunting in Canada a year ago last winter. He played in the tournament last year, however, using a cane to get about. Right after the tournament Foster broke the same knee in an automoble accident. But he came back and shot an 88 yesterday to prove that he is still one of the better Ohio Senior golfers.

Mansfielders are a restless people, members of the P. T. A. council decided after completing a list of address changes in the city during the past year. Approximately 1,500 voters have moved since the last November election, the figures showed. The data is being compiled for use in the campaign for the $550,000 school bond issue which will be voted on at a special election Sept. 20. Each person who moved will be urged to transfer so as to be eligible to vote.

Familiar scenes in and near Mansfield are included in a display of oil paintings, water color, and pencil sketches by Roland Miller, 300 South Main street, are on exhibition at the Public library. The Mansfield scenes are pencil sketches and show the blockhouse in South park and the fountain in Central park The oil paintings are of a view along Cook road and a copy of a famous painting, and the water color shows the lighthouse at Marblehead on Lake Erie.

Dozens of spectators watched Mansfield's newest theater marquee hoisted into place yesterday at the Park theater, across from the courthouse. Weighing about two tons, the marquee was handled in five sections, with the largest bearing the name "Park" and extending vertically in front of the building.

TAFT PROMISES

He'll Fight Smith Membership on NLRB, Candidate Says.

CINCINNATI—(LP)—Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati, Republican nominee for the U. S senate, said today that if elected, he would oppose confirmation of Donald Wakefield Smith's reappointment to the National Labor Relations board because "he has revealed himself to be completely biased."

Taft, supporting the reported opposition to the reappointment by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, asked Sen. Robert J. Bulkley, his Democratic rival, to state his position regarding the matter. Taft said it had become "a national issue"

"It is a matter of common gossip that the reappointment was at the demand of CIO chieftain John L. Lewis," he commented.

2 MAJOR EVENTS WIND UP FAIR

88th State Expo Comes to End Tonight; Ashlander Second in Milkmaid's Contest.

The selection of a sheep-shearing champion and the healthiest 4-H club boy and girl were on the schedule today as Ohio's 88th state fair neared the end.

Attendance was expected to drop well under the 75,000 mark set yesterday, as most of the major features of the exposition have been concluded.

Newspaper men and women from over the state were to be guests today of Director of Agriculture Earl H. Henefeld on the annual "Press day."

An Ashland girl, Miss Dorothy Doggett, won second place in the milkmaid's contest. She got six pounds of milk from a cow in two minutes, while Miss Elenora Switzer, 16, of Lorain county, won first with 6.8 pounds.

Miss Switzer also took first place in the milk-maid's costume contest with her brown and tan sport outfit.

The champion sheep shearer will compete with champions of former years after junior and senior titleholders are selected. Howard W. Locke of Mechanicsburg was the 1937 champion.

AIR BASE IN N. Y. OPENS IN SPRING

Airline Passengers Will Actually Land In Gotham Then.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Airplane passengers who buy tickets for New York City actually can land in New York starting next spring, with the completion of the North Beach airport, Queens.

At the present the New York terminus of all airlines is at Newark, N. J., but W. A. Patterson, president of United Airlines, today announced his company would use the North Beach field when it is finished and so will other companies in addition to maintaining operations at Newark.

The field is being completed by the city with the aid of the Works Progress administration.

SPEED FLIERS POISED IN WEST FOR BENDIX HOP TO CLEVELAND

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES — Ten high speed fliers, nine men and one woman, are scheduled to buzz away from Union Air terminal early tomorrow in the annual Bendix trophy dash to the National Air races, held again this year at Cleveland, O.

There will be extra prizes for pilots flying on from Cleveland to Bendix, N. J.

The woman in the $30,000 event will be Jacqueline Cochran, noted aviatrix She is to fly the Seversky pursuit plane in which the builder, Maj Alexander De Seversky, established a new east-west transcontinental record of 10 hours, 3 minutes, 7 seconds, last Monday.

Also in the race, flying a similar Seversky, will be wealthy Frank Fuller of San Francisco, winner of last year's Bendix race with a new Los Angeles-Cleveland record of 7 hours, 54 minutes and 26 seconds. Fuller continued on to Bendix, N. J., and set a new race record of 9 hours, 35 minutes for the transcontinental flight.

If the weather is suitable, the racers are to start taking off shortly after midnight tonight. The race finish is to be the feature event of Saturday's opening of the Cleveland meet.

AIM HIGHER

Chicago Gambling Probers Out to Get Racket 'Big Shots.'

CHICAGO —(UP)— State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney aimed his ax campaign today at the "higher-ups" of the multi-million dollar a year gambling syndicate which, he claimed, is controlled by remnants of Al (Scarface) Capone's gang.

He made his pronouncement on gambling as his axmen, sweeping over the city simultaneously, raided six big nerve centers of the syndicate and destroyed their furnishings and gambling paraphernalia.

He said the syndicate is run by Frank Nitti, Lawrence (Dago) Mangano, Hymie Levin and a dozen other Capone lieutenants. He said they had taken over a ring operated by Billy Skidmore and Big Bill Johnson, gamblers who had controlled a majority of the handbooks since 1929 when Capone was sentenced to Alcatraz.

HELD TO GRAND JURY

ASHLAND—Ross Quickle, 31, of Loudonville, was being held in the Ashland county jail today pending a grand jury investigation on a charge of carrying concealed weapons without a permit. He was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Dale Hammett on a warrant signed by Marshall Burt Conrad.

LAFF-A-DAY

"Did you ever see such a nosey?"

7 WEEKS OF INVESTIGATION COME TO CLOSE

Inquiry Board to Resume Work in Washington Later, With Emphasis on Rates.

(By Associated Press)

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—The congressional committee which has been probing into the ramifications of the Tennessee Valley Authority for seven weeks, prepared to pack up and go home today, a good part of its work still undone.

Over half of its time has been devoted to the feud between the authority's ousted chairman, Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, and the other two directors, David E. Lilienthal and Dr. Harcourt A. Morgan.

The committee has taken stacks of testimony as to the inner workings of TVA, but it was the sensational charges of the tall, severe-visaged former chairman, and the replies of the two remaining directors that received chief attention.

It was these charges that resulted in removal of Dr Morgan by President Roosevelt for "contumacy," and prompted congress to investigate

Three Points of Controversy.

The controversy resolved itself primarily around three points:

1. Dr. Morgan charged his two co-directors with highly improper conduct in negotiating a "friendly" agreement to conciliate marble claims held by Sen. George L. Berry (D., Tenn.) and associates. A condemnation commission found the claims of no commercial value.

2. The 18 power company case, in which the companies unsuccessfully sought to have TVA declared unconstitutional Dr Morgan claimed the authority's legal department improperly sought to have engineers give misleading information.

3. The rate making part of the electric power program, handled by Lilienthal. Dr. Morgan charged Lilienthal set rates with inadequate information. Lilienthal insisted the rates had been proven proper by experience.

The committee will reconvene in Washington after a recess of several weeks Whether the rates fixed by Lilienthal provide the true "yardstick" for power costs that TVA was supposed to establish is an outstanding problem.

DIES IN GALION

J. J. Bersinger, 88, Second in Family to Succumb in Week.

GALION—Jacob J. Bersinger, 88, died Thursday at the home of his son, George, of a heart ailment. He was the second of his family to succumb within a week. A brother, Adolph, died last week near Galion.

Surviving are two sons, Gilbert, east of Galion, and George; three brothers, Rudolph and Henry of Galion and Lewis of California; a sister, Mrs. Anna Flowers of Galion, three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Services will be held at the Snyder funeral home at 2.30 p m. Saturday with Rev. R. R. Elliker officiating. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

CHILD SERIOUSLY HURT IN TRAFFIC

Ashland Girl, 3, Struck By Car Driven By Justice of Peace.

ASHLAND—Donna Carol Markey, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Markey, 514 East Liberty street, was seriously injured when struck by an automobile last evening operated by N. E. Harris, Lodi justice of peace

The girl suffered a possible fracture of the skull and right ankle when she darted in front of the machine The front bumper of the car struck the child as Harris swerved in an attempt to avoid hitting her, Ashland police said.

An examination by a physician after the accident failed to reveal any serious injuries, but the child's condition became worse later in the evening and she was removed to the hospital.

Welcome To—

A daughter, born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schluter, Westview boulevard, at General hospital Thursday evening.

A son, born to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Duffey, 138 Johns avenue, this morning at the home.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Dies Should Feel He Has Had Some Success Since He Has Stirred Squawks

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—By the shrill squawk of the Bolos and their journalistic fellow travelers against the Dies committee's inquiry into communistic activities Mr Dies and his colleagues may know that they have touched a nerve. The same fellow travelers who applauded the appointment to the supreme court of a meal-ticket progressive who previously had joined a Fascist organization in order to obtain a cheap political job have denounced Mr. Dies with great fury and no conspicuous regard for truth.

The inquiry was all right as long as it confined itself to the activities of the Fascists and Nazis, for, after all, they are upstart rivals of the Bolos and the fellow travelers, selling practically the same line of goods under a different label on the same side of the street. But when witnesses began to accuse the Communists of activities which they themselves proudly admit in less guarded moments, Mr. Dies became a tool of Fascism

But after all, what accusations have been made that the Bolos want to deny?

That Communists are influential in the CIO? They admit that They favor the CIO and join it, and it would be contrary to their purpose not to dominate it wherever they can. So, of course, they are active and influential in the CIO, and, moreover, while still denying it they stoutly assert their rights to do all this.

A CIO leader, accused of sympathy for the communists, fumed at this and denied that he was an enrolled Communist—which wasn't the charge at all—but corroborated the witness by avowing a belief that Communist Russia is the world's greatest effort for human betterment.

It was said that the old League Against War and Fascism was under Moscow influence. This league's reputation came to be such that it presently was deemed wise to change its name to the League for Peace and Democracy. But neither name contains any hint against Communism, and there is no denial that the Communists and their fellow travelers favor the league, whether or not it be admitted that they dominate it or that it is under direct influence from Moscow. Is there anything fascistic, is there anything that savors of political hounding, in the simple presentation of this information about the League for Peace and Democracy?

It was said, further, that the Communists attempt to seduce non-communists by inviting them to join various leagues with innocent names so that their names may be exploited for ballyhoo purposes.

By personal experience I know that, I was solicited to join the League Against War and Fascism, with no suggestion that it was under Moscow influence, and a priest once wrote to say that he, too, had been invited and to ask if it were a Communistic organization. He had heard as much, but couldn't tell from the name.

It was said also that Shirley Temple had unwittingly lent her name to the Communist propaganda by sending greetings to a Paris publication which was said to be Communistic.

Nobody said Shirley Temple was a dangerous Red, but it was made to appear that she had been depicted as such and that Mr. Dies had taken this charge seriously. But the facts were not disputed at all, nor is the charge disputed that the Communists do seduce prominent persons into lending their names to Communistic organizations with misleading titles.

Of course, in such hearings where prejudiced witnesses are invited to sing their songs, overstatements and sensationalism are common. Thus the Communists and fellow travelers have been given occasion to jeer at the report that federal officials would be connected with subsidiary groups of the Communist organization. But further inquiry might dig deeper and produce more evidence, and, anyway, when did the Communists and fellow travelers become so sensitive to overstatement and sensationalism on the part of ad lib witnesses before congressional committees? It has always pleased them when directed against any of their pet enemies, whether the charges stood up or not.

Mr. Dies should do very well in Hollywood, too, where fellow travelers abound in the writing branch of the movies, and members of an opposition group will tell him of a plan to drive out of the business all writers who refuse to join a group having enthusiastic favor of the Communists and fellow travelers

Mr. Dies is doing very well, but he should remember to come back to the Nazi investigation before his committee goes broke, just to make things even.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Item here recently on Frances Dee's secret and unusually fine test for the role of THAT heroine in THAT book had her fans jubilant. The Dee-for-Scarlet campaign is under way—but write Selznick, not me. . . .

Wallace Beery and Mickey Rooney are "Stablemates" in title only. . . . Kay Francis says she's going to leave the lots when she gets married and won't be back for a long time, if then. . . .

Hollywood thinks Ariane Borg, the little French girl, had her nerve telling those reporters she drew $70,000 here for doing nothing. . . . The argument's always the same "We gotta pay 'em to find out if they've got anything" . . . As Billy Wilkerson in the Hollywood Reporter put it, Henry Ford can spend thousands experimenting on a new gadget and toss it in the ashcan and nobody thinks anything of it—but let Hollywood spend a little experimenting on a personality and it's NEWS. . . .

But on the other hand there's Deanna Durbin, passed up by Metro but a sensation at the U. . . . And Bing Crosby, turned down plenty before his Paramount click. . . . And Gable, a reject until the fans howled for him. . . . And Taylor, skipped by Goldwyn but saved by the fans for Metro.

One of the five pictures Nelson Eddy hears he's to do after "Sweethearts" is "I Married An Angel." . . . That's funny, because five years ago Eddy was brought to Hollywood to do that very musical comedy which today, because it's a stage hit, will become a movie. . . . They were afraid to do it as a picture then because of the "angel" angle. . . . Now, whether they like it or not—and they do—they've a lot on their hands, and Eddy will play it at last . . . But the angel won't have wings . . . She'll be merely a very angelic human . . .

The role of "Lucky" in the Hopalong Cassidy westerns is just that. Jimmy Ellison played it first, went on to bigger things Russell Hayden's doing it now Hayden was a laboratory worker at Paramount, friend of Jimmy's when Ellison introduced him to Harry Sherman, Hopalong producer, and Sherman hired him as business manager. When Ellison left the "Cassidys" they put Hayden in his "Lucky" role. And then Hayden introduced his fiancee, June Clayton, to Sherman From a small part in one Hopalong she was promoted to feminine lead in the next—and she's clicked

Joan Crawford should be a big box-office in "The Shining Hour." . . . She'll have help from Margaret Sullavan, Robert Montgomery and Melvyn Douglas! . . . Joe Frisco, the one-time vaude headliner, is doing his old turns at the Seven Seas, cocktail house. . . .

Terry Kilburn (of "Lord Jeff") may play Tiny Tim to Lionel Barrymore's Scrooge in "The Christmas Carol." . . . Robert Preston, the radio operator in "King of Alcatraz," is a Bing Crosby discovery. . . . His mother, at the phonograph record company in which Bing's interested, suggested Bing might like to see her boy act at the Pasadena playhouse. . . . Bing said to himself, "Oh, well, we've got to do this," and sent a scout who came back raving. . . . Agent-brother Everett Crosby signed Preston, sold him to Paramount. . . .

Staging Scenes Before Guests Upsets Child

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

The morning's mail brought in a letter from a little girl of 13. I'd like to send a copy of it to every parent in the United States, hoping that it may meet the eyes of those parents who destroy the foundations on which the lives of their children are built before these young lives have fairly started.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm so ashamed that I feel like running away from home and never coming back any more. But I suppose a girl of 13, who isn't even in high school, couldn't make any money. I read your column every day, and maybe you can tell me something I can do. I'd like to do something too, for my little brother who is only eight years old, if I could.

I suppose it's wrong for us girls in school to brag about our mothers and fathers and the nice homes we've got. But all of us do it, and I did it too. We haven't got a nice home, though papa makes a lot of money, and mama has awfully nice clothes. But mama and papa fuss with each other all the time and they won't even stop before people.

The other night mama let me invite two girls to supper, because I'd had a lot of meals at their two houses. And mama ordered ice cream, so we'd have a nice supper. But papa began to fuss just as soon as we sat down. He fussed with mama awfully. He had a bill for something she'd bought at a store, and said he wasn't going to pay any bills any more. Some of the things were for brother and me, our shoes and stockings, and mama joked for a while, and then she began to cry. I felt awful sorry for her.

Papa got up and left the table, and one of the girls went home before we had the ice cream. And mama took the other girl and brother and me to the movies But the girls told their mothers and fathers about the fuss, and I want to go away.

Do you know where a girl of 13 could make any money?

Peggy.

It seems incomprehensible that parents who stage a scene, such as this little girl described, don't realize that they're helping to lick their children before they're fairly started And apart from that they're putting the cheapest kind of a tag on their own valuation. A man who belittles his wife before strange children, who can't get home fast enough to tell about it, not only gets the amused comment from the neighbors who hear the sordid details but the positive hatred of his children, who feel themselves humiliated

Every little boy likes every other little boy to regard his father as a hero. And a hero doesn't make his wife cry over the supper table. And every little girl likes every other little girl to think her mother is a queen and her home is a fairy paradise where everyone lives happily ever after

Children are realists, realists with the pride of Lucifer, and the foundation of hate is laid consciously and unconsciously on those who bring humiliation upon children's heads.

When a child sees his father treat his mother with contempt and reduce her to tears before strangers, it's only natural for him to become mother's ally even if the belittling she receives from her husband makes them regard her with lukewarm affection.

And mother is only human if she does not take advantage of this championship to tell her children behind father's back: "You could have everything as nice as Mary Smith, if your father weren't such a tightwad."

Children from such homes, bereft of respect from parents, soon learn to make their own decisions. How unwise these decisions often are, you've only to read the daily papers to see, and see the messes they drift into.

Apron Pattern Comes In Extra Large Sizes for Heavy Figure.

By MARIAN MARTIN

If you're the sort of person who likes to be first with new fashions—even to aprons—you'll want to hurry up and make up both versions of Pattern 9846 in time for busy fall activities! These aprons are practical but with enough frivolty to be really smart, with their trim of ruffling, ric-rac, ribbon bows or buttons. Do notice the choice of necklines, both flattering—and the useful patch pockets! Consider too the bias panel idea—the secret of success for a good-fitting, really "dressed-up" look, without extra work. The high back prevents the nuisance of slipping shoulder straps.

Pattern 9846 may be ordered only in sizes small, medium, large and extra large. Small size, view A, requires 2⅝ yards 36-inch fabric and 2⅝ yards ric-rac; view B, 2¼ yards 36-inch fabric; 1¾ yards ruffling.

BE SURE TO STATE SIZE

Young Girls Should Have Easy Hair-Do

By MME. QUI VIVE

Up to the age of twelve, little daughter's hair isn't much of a problem. The weekly shampoo with a brisk friction of the scalp, occasionally an application of olive oil, will suffice to keep the silky growth in good condition. Every six weeks or so there is a trim. Clips keep side locks in place, or tiny bows of ribbon can be used to restrain flying locks.

When a girl gets into her 'teens she regards the short cut as infantile. She yearns for a permanent, an undulation and ringleted ends. Mother considers her own overhead along those lines. It mounts up in the course of a year. Two or three permanents, the fortnightly shampoo and finger wave, the necessary trim, the total makes a gouge in the checkbook. These attentions are no longer luxuries, they are necessities. The old topknot must conform to the styles Mama cannot appear duddy. Without the correct coiffure she might as well get out her little ladder and climb up on the shelf.

Besides the expense for daughter there would be the matter of finding time for her appointments. It seems rather silly for a girl of thirteen or fourteen to line up with the supplicants for loveliness at the pulchritude works when economy must be practiced in the family circles.

Braids are the solution of daughter's glory crown problems. With mama's uppity hairdress and daughter's pigtails, there will be at last a style distinction between children and women. There will be an unpleasant betwixt-and-between period when the short bob is extending itself, but that must be endured. A narrow ribbon worn around the head is a help. Keep tresses corraled.

We are not for two pigtails hanging down the back, that's too practical, anything but decorative. Pretty effects can be achieved with braids. Patterns can be formed that will be accepted by the child as smart and chic.

Example. Part the hair in the middle. Braid a section on either side of the part, braid in the ends with the hair at the back, place ribbon bows at the nape line to hold the lower ends in place. The ends can be kept curled with metal rods.

Two braids at the back can be crossed, held in place with bow-knots of narrow ribbons. If the ends are curly they will form fluffy rosettes back of each ear. Mama's darling will love them.

That little girls look better with smooth crowns than with undulations every woman with a seeing eye will agree. Finger waves are for grown-ups. Even some women look younger when the hair close to the head is without wave lines.

Flowing locks are pretty on children if the hair isn't too long. With present day ideas as to cleanliness one can't accept hirsute mops. They're dirt catchers.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I'll admit I was a bit flabbergasted, also chagrined," Lillian said, when she had finished telling me how Queen Olga had penetrated the disguise she had used when she came to the hospital to rescue her. "I had flattered myself upon the excellence of my make-up—Harry really had outdone himself—but Olga hastened to lessen my dolor.

" 'I flatter myself,' the queen said, 'that almost no one else, even your friends, would have known you. It just happens that theatrical make-up and disguises have been a hobby with me since my childhood.'

" 'But, oh! Maman—she is perfect!' Olina gurgled, but her mother silenced her with a look.

" 'I know, Mrs. Underwood,' she said, addressing me, 'that you have not done this idly. You said you had a message for me. May I have it?'

"I hurried through the message your father had sent her," Lillian continued. "I stressed the danger of their remaining in the hospital another hour, and the necessity of keeping Philip Veritzen in ignorance of their going and their destination. And then I saw a hot, shamed flush rise to her cheeks.

Cannot Get Her Money.

" 'But you see,' she said. 'I cannot leave without his sanction. I—cannot get at the little money I have over here on such short notice, and Mr. Veritzen has been paying the bills here. I have not money enough to pay the current week.'

" 'Mr. Spencer provided for that,' I told her. 'I have plenty of money with me to pay everything in full. And I will have Mr. Underwood talk to the head of the hospital. I would suggest that while we are attending to these details, you write a note for Mr. Veritzen, telling him that you were summoned away from the hospital upon a secret errand of great urgency pertaining to the affairs of your country, and that you will get in touch with him at the earliest possible moment. Tell him that you are sure neither you nor your daughter is in any danger, and make the rest of the note as flowery and grateful as you please. In the meantime, can Olina go over the hotel, pack her things and come back here?'

" 'Of course,' Olga said, all her resourcefulness patently rising at something to do. 'She can go at once.'

" 'It won't take me long to pack, Olina said ruefully 'We have so little'

" 'We would have much more, if I would permit Philip Veritzen to have his way,' Olga said, and do you know, Madge, there was something very like tenderness in her voice? I'm wondering if she's beginning to fall for him again "

"Did she ever stop?" I murmured, and Lillian laughed outright.

"Time will tell," she said with a grimace at the trite words, and then hurried on with the story which, in Dicky's parlance, had me "on the edge of my chair with my tongue hanging out."

"I told Olina to take a taxi going and coming and to tell the hotel man that she was going over to the hospital for a couple of days to stay near her mother, who was having a nervous spell. That would keep the hotel employes, who are undoubtedly in old Phil's pay, from getting busy and contacting him wherever he was "

"You had no trouble, then, with the hospital authorities," I said.

Had No Trouble.

"Not a bit—after Harry had interviewed the head and told him who we were, producing the necessary identification. He stressed the fact that Mr. Veritzen was not to know the details, and said that Queen Olga would leave a note for Mr. Veritzen explaining everything, but that no other explanation was to be given. The head saw the light, and our exit was greased accordingly.

"And then we were off, driving like mad till we regained our own car, and then only a little more slowly down here. We made splendid time, and we thought we were untraced, but the presence of that assassin upon the roof proves that we weren't as good in our getaway as we thought."

"I'm not so sure," I said reflectively. "Those conspirators may have had a watch set upon this place for some time, sure that eventually the royal fugitives would be brought here. When you left, the man guarding the hospital may have wired his comrades in this vicinity to come over here and try to kill the queen before she could enter the house."

"That's a thought," Lillian said. "and here's another one. What are we going to do with old Veritzen when he lands here?"

Smart women both here and abroad always have a comprehensive glove wardrobe Here are some new numbers just in from Paris. At top is pink suede, very light and supple, with black stitching and a black bow. It is considerably longer on the underside. Next comes suede, also light, in green, with darker green piping and tassels with gold tops Suede in French blue, with an insert of navy blue and navy blue stitching, makes the gloves below, which have the palm side in navy blue.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Sept. 3.

MUCH HIGH-PRESSURE activity and tension may be expected on this day, judging by the very lively planetary testimonies The faculties and forces will be found keyed up to fine initiative and enterprise.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very lively year, with much energy and enterprise stimulated and maneuvered into progressive and gainful channels. This may be achieved through the cooperation of important persons who will be ready for speculative chances with their funds. There is not much hazard under ruling conditions in practical, constructive projects.

A child born on this day may be versatile, intellectually brilliant and have much energy and initiative for large projects, with leanings toward bold strokes in speculation. It may also have a warm social and emotional nature, probably making an early marriage

Bananas, Peaches In New Guise

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

"SEWING UP" the cooking situation may sometimes involve basting and embroidery and piping, but never, never any hemming (or hawing, we hope): Basting, in a cookery sense, means to pour or drip some succulent or savory liquid over the viand you are cooking, while embroidery in the kitchen means these fancy touches we give our meals to make them distinctive. Piping, to the cooks, means the things you "shoot" with a pastry gun. So be a seamstress in your kitchen, to your own success!

Rosy bananas is the first of our "sewing-up" recipes. Ingredients include one cup cranberry sauce or jelly, one tablespoon cold water, three large, firm bananas, two tablespoons lemon juice. Beat cranberry sauce or jelly until smooth. Stir in tablespoon cold water. Cut peeled bananas lengthwise into halves and sprinkle with lemon juice. Place in baking dish. Pour cranberry juice over bananas. Bake in moderate oven 10 minutes or until bananas are tender. Serve hot with meats or thoroughly chilled as a dessert. This recipe serves six.

Baked Peaches.

Baked peaches is the next dish. Peel ripe, fresh peaches and cut in halves; pit and place in shallow baking dish. Dot with butter, a few gratings of nutmeg and a few drops of lemon juice. Pour in a small amount of dark corn syrup to fill cavity of each peach. Bake in 350 F. over for 15 to 20 minutes, basting occasionally with juice. Serve hot.

Cool cucumber salad is a delightful luncheon dish. It requires one package lime gelatin, one cup hot water, three-quarters cup canned grapefruit, taspoon vinegar, one-half cup grated cucumber, one-half cup diced cucumber, dash of salt. Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add grapefruit juice (drained from segments), vinegar, salt and grated cucumber. Strain and chill until slightly thickened. Season diced cucumber with dash of salt and fold into slightly-thickened lime gelatin. Turn into individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce and embroider with a piping of creamy mayonnaise.

This is a good time to obtain small plants of campanula isophylla, which is often called the Star of Bethlehem. For a long time this plant has been scarce, but it is now being distributed in the trade. Small plants can be obtained at a low price, and if given good care through the summer will begin to flower next winter, growing better each year. A plant several years old produces such a profusion of star-shaped flowers that the foliage is almost entirely hidden. This campanula looks best when grown in hanging pots or baskets, or in a pot on a bracket. The white kind is most often seen, but there is also a blue variety.

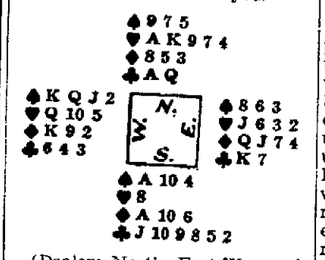
Squash may be easily peeled if it is first put into the oven and thoroughly warmed.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

PASS UP THIS FINESSE

With an ace-queen alone in one hand opposite a string of cards to the J-10, you may not be able to risk the finesse. If it loses, the defenders may then knock out the only side entry for your long suit. So, unless you have two such entries, play the ace on the first round and then deliberately lead the queen, hoping that the defenders will win it with the king and so unblock the suit for you.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North began the bidding on this deal with 1-Heart, South responded with 2-Clubs, North rebid his hearts, South went to 2-No Trumps and North bid 3-No Trumps.

South allowed the lead of the spade K to hold, but won the next lead of the spade J with the A. He then finessed the club Q, which East won with the K and returned the diamond 4. South played the 10 and West took the trick with the K. After cashing two spades, he continued diamonds. Declarer therefore was never able to run his clubs and was limited to five tricks.

One method he might have tried, after winning with the spade A, was to play the club A immediately and follow with the club Q, with the hope that the defender who held the king would be obliged to play it. This play, while still retaining the diamond A, would have made game sure.

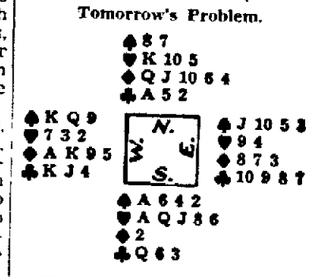
When making sandwiches cut bread lengthwise. This saves about two-thirds of the waste, especially when sandwiches are cut in fancy shapes.

My Neighbor Says:

This is the season for planting peonies, which can be obtained at unusually low prices and in great variety. The one point to remember when planting them is that the crowns should be just two inches under the surface of the ground, unless the soil happens to be very light, in which case three inches will not be too deep. Peonies like rich ground, but resent the presence of fresh manure near the roots. Some bone meal worked into the ground may be of value. Plants, which have been established several years, may be divided safely at this season, making several new plants. It is well, however, to leave well established peonies for six or seven years, and perhaps longer, if they continue to bloom well.

When adding cocoa to foods combine it with the dry ingredients such as flour or sugar.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: West, North-South vulnerable.)

What is South's safest play for 4-Hearts? West cashed the diamond K and then switched to the spade K.
